One Dies In Northwest Storm

Minot, N. D., July 23.—The most widespread wind and rain storm of the season, accompanied by violent electrical disturbances visited northwestern North Dakota late Friday afternoon, resulting in one death, that of Dwight Coley, of Norwich who was struck by lightning.

Serious damage to hail-reports in isolated cases, though in no instance was the area affected of large dimensions.

Fires ignited by lightning caused losses in Burke county, while the wind also assisted in the work of destruction. Velva reports considerable damage to farm buildings because of tornado wind.

CAR SHORTAGE NOT FEARED IN NORTH DAKOTA

New Equipment and Plan to Return Cars Will Prevent It, Says Milhollan

No serious car shortage is expected in North Dakota this fall, as a result of the combined efforts of railroad executives and officials of the state, Chairman Frank Milhollan of the North Dakota commission said today.

All railroads operating in North Dakota have a large number of empty cars stored at this time, according to reports made at a conference held in Sioux Falls, S. D., the chairman said. In addition the roads have purchased new locomotives and cars.

Eastern railroads, he said, have promised to continue the present policy of returning empty cars to western lines without delay, two representatives of eastern railroads having been present at the Sioux Falls conference.

The railroad commission and railroads have settled on a policy for the distribution of cars at points where elevators are blocked. The number of cars allotted to the elevators will be on the basis of the amount of grain shipped ten days prior to the elevator becoming blocked, the railroad commission chairman said.

TEACHER TELLS OF DIFFICULTY

Says School Board Sought to Fire Her Because She Wouldn't Teach Socialism

Mrs. Mabel Wing, who has sued the Gibbs school district for $550 salary, declared today in a statement here that the school board of the district sought to discharge her because she wouldn't teach socialism.

"The facts are," she said, "that, on finding out that I showed no inclination to teach socialism in the school, they forced the district to provide books suitable for the pupils of North Dakota. The board sent me word that if I could show them that I was a socialist I would have no trouble, but things would develop should I refuse to do so."

Mrs. Wing sued for five months salary, while the board refused to pay her, claiming that she had been discharged. She finished out the school year.

She asserted the county attorney advised that the board should pay her salary and that the board retain all other attorneys to fight the case.

Cut School Taxes In Dickinson

Dickinson, July 23.—Dickinson taxpayers will have to dig up more than $4,000 less for the maintenance of their schools during the coming year than they did during the twelve months just closed, according to the tentative budget and levy made by the board of education during the past week. The levy for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, has been fixed at approximately $77,000. The total amount collected in taxes last year was $81,995.54.

HIRAM JOHNSON, BACK FROM EUROPE, SILENT ON PRESIDENTIAL BOOM

New York, July 23.—United States Senator Hiram Johnson of California, boomed by his friends for the Republican presidential nomination in 1921, returned from a tour of Europe today on the Leviathan, refusing to indicate to reporters or to the crowd who gathered to greet him whether his hat was in the ring.

To reporters who pressed him for some indication of how he feels about the "Johnson for President" movement he had over the same answer though he expressed his disapproval that he wasn't going to be interviewed on that subject today.

Druggists To Advertise City

The state druggists' association will advertise Bismarck in advertising their 1923 convention, to be held here August 7 to 9. Cuts have been obtained from The Tribune and material from the Association of Commerce for advertising matter which will tell of the city's attractions, and be sent to all members of the North Dakota Pharmaceutical Association.

12,589 BIRTHS IN ONE YEAR

Birth Rate Greatly Exceeds Death Rate in the State

There were 12,589 births in North Dakota in 1922, according to the latest bulletin of the state health board.

That is 195 per 1,000. The death rate for 1922 was 6.8 per 1,000, and the death rate, among infants was 66.8 per 1,000.

Emmons county with 34.5 per 1,000 produced more babies in 1922 than any other county in the state, while Towner with 8.1, had the smallest allotment of infants.

Grand Forks county appears to be the most dangerous locality in the state with a death rate of 11.1 per 1,000 in 1922, while Bowman county was healthiest with an average of 10 persons dying out of every 1,000. Cass is next with 10.9.

Beach led the cities in babies with a birth rate of 44.4 per 1,000 or 49 babies in all while Ellendale, with only seven, or a birth rate of 5.2 per 1,000, trailed the rest. Fargo is high on the list with 34.3 per 1,000.

Other figures for 1922 showed the period between birth and one year of age to be the most dangerous for 841 deaths out of a list of 4,449 took place in that time of life. After a year of age is reached everything is comparatively safe for a while until the period between 30 and 40 when a heavier death rate sets in again, according to the table.

GROWERS WILL HOLD WHEAT IS JEWETT CLAIM

Head of American Wheat Growers Says $50,000,000 Is Available for Holding

FOR SELLERS' STRIKE

Says Wheat Should be Near $1.50 a Bushel to Show Profit for Farmers

Minneapolis, July 23.—Bolstered by government agricultural loans upon which no limit has been set and which may run up to $50,000,000, the American Wheat Growers association will decline to sell a bushel of wheat at present prices, and will hold its supplies in storage for an advance for a year if necessary, George C. Jewett, general manager, said here last night.

The policy of the wheat growers organization, which report prospective receipts of from 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 bushels, is on manifestation of a so-called "selling strike" approved by the American Farm Bureau federation, according to dispatches from Chicago. Thomas H. Hansen, manager of the United States Grain Growers Sales company, said that his company would follow the policy approved by the American Farm Bureau federation and would urge farmers to hold their wheat for the present and to use the resources of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank through mail-order agencies to enable them to do it.

"Not a Bushel" to Sell.

Mr. Jewett said the first wheat to be handled by the American Wheat Growers association would come in from the southwest in a few days and that not a bushel will be sold until the price goes up. He said the Oklahoma Wheat Growers Association, a state body organized similar basis, but not affiliated with the national organization, is already borrowing about $100,000 daily from the Intermediate Credit bank in Kansas for the purpose of holding in wheat.

At a conference of Federal Land bank and Intermediate Credit bank officials in St. Paul, Mr. Jewett said, his organization was assured the Intermediate Credit bank would take care of any excess needs and that no limit was placed on the amount of money that might be borrowed. By "excess needs" was meant any money needed beyond what non-governmental banks would lend.

"The money is obtainable at 51-2 per cent and will be loaned to the farmer at that rate," Mr. Jewett said. "The farmer faces the problem of handling of this crop with better financial equipment than he ever has had before. We are, through our own organization, more concrete means of obtaining orderly marketing than ever was at his disposal before."

Calls Low Price Unjustified.

"I do not believe there is any justification for the present price of wheat not only because it is less than the cost of production, but also because of the factors of supply and demand. I believe the present price is not the result of government interference and the Copper-Schuler law, but a speculative result, a culmination of a bear movement that is quite likely to come about at this time of the year. There is talk of a wheat surplus in this country of 180,000,000 bushels—loose talk, for this is the world surplus, a not unusual surplus. Our own surplus is 80,000,000 bushels, a smaller one than we often have had. I think production this year is hardly up to average."

"Certainly we will not sell at present prices. We will hold out all year if necessary. The farmers will be advanced 5 per cent of the market price when they deliver their wheat to us, through redemptive facilities, and with that advance we will be able to hold out."

Suggests $1.50 to Show Profit.

"What we would like to have and what we will get in the way of a price are two very different things. But $1.50 would be a price at which our farmers could show some profit."

Second Term Opens Thursday

A slight cut in attendance is expected at the summer term of the Dickinson State Normal school which opens next Thursday morning, July 26. The first term in which more than 40 Slope teachers and students are enrolled, will close Wednesday noon. Many of the students will remain for the second term while others will leave immediately for a brief vacation before their schools begin or to take up other work.

Three new instructors will come to the normal for the second term to take the place of present faculty members who are severing their connections with the institution or leaving on vacations. They are Miss Mae Mahoff of Millboro, S. D., who has signed as training school supervisor for the next year and will do special work through the second term. Superintendent E. H. Maxwell of New England and Superintendent Don Kay.

HEAVY DAMAGE IS DONE WHEN AN EARTHQUAKE OF SEVERE INTENSITY STRIKES AT SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.

San Bernardino, Calif., July 23.—Thousands of dollars worth of damage was done here at 11:28 o'clock last night when the most violent earthquake in the history of the city was recorded. The hall of records, a building in the courthouse group, was badly damaged, tons of rock being torn loose from the walls. The falling debris crashed through the roof of a rooming house adjoining, critically injuring George Fisher, 56, who was sleeping at the time. Other roomers were thrown into a panic and rushed into the street partly clothed.

Plate glass windows in a number of business establishments were shattered; walls of numerous buildings and side-walks were cracked, telephone communication was cut off adding to the pandemonium and the street lights were extinguished.

STEVENSONS GET CONTRACT

Stevens Bros., contractors of St. Paul and owners of lignite coal mines at Garrison, have been awarded the contract on the first link of the proposed $5,000,000 highway project in Glacier Park, Montana, the company being the low bidder.

The highway is planned as one of the most picturesque "sky line" highways in the world.

4 DROWN ON TORRID DAY IN NORTHWEST

Two Children Drowned at Twin Cities; Two Lose Lives in South Dakota

Minneapolis, July 23.—Drowning of two boys, one a five year old lad who slipped from his mother's grasp at a bathing party, three drownings, and injury of eight persons in traffic accidents on Minneapolis streets crowded by the influx of motor visitors northward bound, last night marked the close of a day of torrid temperatures that threaten to duplicate themselves today.

At Orman lake, near Belle Fourche, S. D., the heat wave cost two more lives when two young men seeking relief in the irrigation reservoir were drowned.

One of the casualties of the day in Minneapolis was a traffic patrolman, run down by an automobile while on duty. He was A. V. Palmersten, temporarily assigned to duty to help handle the crush brought on by the influx of motor tourists and the outburst of thousands of Minneapolisians bound for the lakes to seek relief from the heat.

The dead: Andrew Montgomery, aged 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Montgomery, 2337 Dowsell avenue, St. Paul, drowned in Gull lake.

Edward Wooding, aged 8, son of George Wooding, 4407 Grimes avenue, S. D., drowned in Lake Calhoun.

E. Lee, Huron, S. D., drowned while seeking relief from the heat in Orman lake irrigation reservoir of the Belle Fourche, S. D., district.

Harold Wamsley, Spearfish, S. D., drowned trying to rescue Lee.

PRESIDENT ON WAY TO U. S.

U. S. S. Henderson to Dock at Vancouver, B. C. Wednesday

On Board U. S. S. Henderson with President Harding, July 23.—The navy transport Henderson, bearing President and Mrs. Harding and members of their party, ploughed steadily south today following the last visit to Alaskan ports paid yesterday at Sitka when farewells and good wishes for the territory's future development were said formally. The next stop is scheduled at Vancouver, B. C., Wednesday morning.

POSSE HUNTS FOR S. D. BOY

Went Out to Get Horses Thought Taken by Band

Rapid City, S. D., July 23.—A posse of 200 men were searching yesterday morning for Kenneth Hunt, 18-year-old Rapid City lad, who has been missing since Thursday. He left his father's ranch to find some horses alleged to have been stolen from a corral the night before. The horses have since returned. It is feared by Sheriff Lockhart that the horses were liberated in a fight with thieves which ended in foul play for the boy. The country side is wrought up over the affair.

Three new instructors will come to the normal for the second term to take the place of present faculty members who are severing their connections with the institution or leaving on vacations. They are Miss Mae Mahoff of Millboro, S. D., who has signed as training school supervisor for the next year and will do special work through the second term. Superintendent E. H. Maxwell of New England and Superintendent Don Kay.

Automobiles of William Johnson and Sam Helvig collided on the Mandan road, west of the bridge, both automobiles being damaged. No one was hurt.

ILLINOIS TOWN IS TERRORIZED AFTER FLIGHT

One Convict Killed, Guards Are Beaten When the Insane Men Escape Prison

POSSES FOLLOW THEM

Hiding Places Along Mississippi Bluffs Offer Excellent Retreats for Men

Chester, Ill., July 23.—Forty-one criminally insane men broke out of a large in this vicinity today following the wholesale jail delivery at the state hospital for the criminal insane last night in which one of the convicts was slain, two guards stabbed seriously and other guards and officials badly beaten. Many of those who escaped had been committed to the institution on their pleas of insanity when charged with murder in various parts of the state.

Numerous posses, including 50 guards of the southern Illinois penitentiary, which is adjacent to the hospital, police officers and citizens were scouring a thick-wooded section north of Chester where most of the fugitives are believed in hiding. The uneven topography of the section and bluffs rising the Mississippi river nearby, give the escaped convicts many secure hiding places, according to leaders of the posse, who said the work of pursuit was tortuous.

Chester, a town of 4,000 population, and farmers residing near by, received news of the escape with terror. Within a short while the streets of Chester were deserted and most of the male residents remained up all night guarding their homes with firearms. "The town has negligible police protection."

The delivery occurred when 327 convicts, who were in the exercise yard, a steel wire stockade, seized a moment when their guards were relaxing and pounced upon them. Ten guards within the inclosure were captured.

After overpowering the guards the convicts used a wooden bench as a battering ram and hammered a way through the stockade through which the men fled in all directions.

CAR SHORTAGE NOT FEARED IN NORTH DAKOTA

New Equipment and Plan to Return Cars Will Prevent
It, Says Millhollan

No serious car shortage is expected in North Dakota this fall, as a result of the combined efforts of railroad executives and officials of railroad commissions of Northwestern states, Chairman Frank Millhollan of the North Dakota commission said today.

All railroads operating in North Dakota have a large number of empty cars stored at this time, according to reports made at a conference held in Sioux Falls, S. D., the chairman said.
In addition the roads have purchased new locomotives and cars.

Eastern railroads, he said, have promised to continue the present policy of returning empty cars to western lines without delay, two representatives of eastern railroads having been present at the Sioux Falls conference.

The railroad commission and railroads have settled on a policy for

Buy your coal now.

"The railroads are each week cars available for the fall increase and we earnestly solicit your co-

coal now as possible."

GROWERS WILL HOLD WHEAT IS JEWETT CLAIM

Ilead of American Wheat
Growers Says $50,000,000
Is Available for Holding

FOR SELLERS' STRIKE

Says Wheat Should be Near
$1.50 a Bushel to Show
Profit for Farmers

Minneapolis, July 23.—Boostered by government agricultural loans upon which no limit has been set and which may run up to $50,000,000, the American Wheat Growers association will decline to sell a bushel of wheat at present prices, and will hold its supplies in storage for an advance for a year if necessary, George C.
Jewett, general manager, said here
last night.

The policy of the wheat growers organization, which report prospective receipts of from 50,000,000 to 75-000,000 bushels, is on manifestation of a so-called "selling strike" approved by the American Farm Bureau federation, according to dispatches from Chicago. Thomas Hazen, manager of the United States
Grain growers Sales company, said that his company would follow the policy approved by the American Farm Bureau federation and would be foremost to hold their wheat for the season and to use the resources of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank through qualified agencies to enable them to do it.

"Not a Bushel" to Sell.
Mr. Jewett said the first wheat to be handled by the American Wheat Growers association would come in from the southwest in a few days and that not a bushel will be sold until the price goes up. He said the Oklahoma Wheat Growers Association, a state body organized on a similar basis, but not affiliated with the national organization, is already borrowing about $100,000 daily from the Intermediate Credit bank in Kansas for the purpose of holding in wheat.

At a conference of Federal Land bank and Intermediate Credit bank officials in St. Paul, Mr. Jewett said, his organization was assured the Intermediate Credit bank would take care of any excess needs and that no limit was placed on the amount of money that might be borrowed. By "excess needs" was meant any money needed beyond that of non-governmental banks would lend.

"The money is obtainable at 5-1/2 per cent and will be loaned to the farmer at that rate," Mr. Jewett said.
"The farmer faces the problem of handling of this crop with better financial equipment than he ever has had, and we believe, through our own organization, more concrete means of attaining orderly marketing than ever has at his disposal before."

Calla Low Price Unjustified.
"I do not believe there is any justification for the present price of wheat, not only because it is less than the cost of production, but also because of the factors of supply and demand. I believe the present price is not the result of government interference and speculative results, but the culmination of a bear movement that is quite likely to come about at this time of the year. There is talk of a wheat surplus in this country of 180-000,000 bushels—loose talk, for this is the world surplus, a not unusual surplus. Our own surplus is 80,000,000 bushels, a smaller one than we often have had. I think production this year is hardly up to average."

"Certainly we will not sell at present prices. We will hold out all year if necessary. The farmers will be advanced 5 per cent of the market price when they deliver their wheat to us, through redemptor facilities, and with that advance we will be able to hold out."

Suggests $1.50 to Show Profit.
"What we would like to have and what we will get in the end, through the school, are two different things.
But $1.50 would be a price at which our farmers could show some profit."

Second Term
Opens Thursday

A slight out in attendance is expected at the summer term of the Dickinson State Normal school which opens next Thursday morning, July 26. The first term in which more than 400 Slope teachers and students are enrolled, will close Wednesday noon. Many of the students will remain for the second term while others will leave immediately for a brief vacation before the school begins or to take up other work.

Three new instructors will come to the normal for the second term to take the place of present faculty members who are severing their connections with the institution or leaving on vacations. They are Miss Mae Mahoff of Millboro, S. D., who has signed as training school superintendent for the next year and will do special work through the second term. Superintendent H. H.

HEAVY DAMAGE IS DONE WHEN AN EARTHQUAKE OF SEVERE INTENSITY STRIKES AT SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.

San Bernardino, Calif., July 23.—
Thousands of dollars worth of damage was done here at 11:28 o'clock last night when the most violent earthquake in the history of the city was recorded. The hall of records, a building in the courthouse group, was badly damaged, tons of rock being torn loose from the walls.
The falling debris crashed through the roof of a rooming house adjoining, critically injuring George Fisher, 56, who was sleeping at the time.

Other roomers were thrown into a panic and rushed into the street
partly clothed.

Plate glass windows in a number of business establishments were shattered, walls of numerous buildings and side-walks were cracked, telephone communication was cut off adding to the pandemonium and the street lights were extinguished.

Minneapolis, July 23.—Drowning of two boys, one a five year old lad who slipped from his mother's grasp at a bathing party, three prostrations, and injury of eight persons in traffic accidents on Minneapolis streets crowd-

At Orman lake, near Belle Fourche, handle the crush brought on by the influx of motor tourists and the out-rushing of thousands of Minneapolisites bound for the lakes to seek relief from the heat.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT VALUES ARE UNSETTLED

Conflicting Reports Received On the Chicago Board

Chicago, July 21.—Wheat values were unsettled during the early dealings today. The plan of the American Farm Bureau for holding back wheat on farms induced some buying at the start. Cash houses sold, hedging against purchases to arrive, but at 98 cents for the September delivery there was a good class of buying which absorbed the offerings and a rally followed. Winnipeg showed independent strength, despite favorable crop reports, which had some effect here after the opening. Reports from parts of Minnesota, telling of damage from black rust and from the heat also had some effect on values here. The opening which varied from 2-8 cents decline to a like advance with September, 98-3-4 to 98-7-8 and December $1.01-3-8 to $1.03-5-8 was followed by returns all around and then a general setback. The wheat was more or less under hedging pressure and there was a lack of aggressive support. Finish unsettled; with values ranging from 2-8 cents off to 3-4 and 7-8 cents higher with Sept. 99-1-4 to 99-3-8 cents and December $1.02-1-8 to $1.02-3-8.

SUICIDE VERDICT CHANGED TO MURDER

Trial hearing conducted before a coroner's jury by Magistrate J. Johnson at Frederick, Md., resulted in a former verdict of suicide being changed to one of "slain by persons unknown" in the death of Mrs. Grace Simmons Kepner. Inset is Miss Lula V. Ricketta, cashier in a lunch room, who was called as a witness. H. Eyard Kepner, the slain woman's husband, testified that Mrs. Kepner had prayed to die.

What's Going on in The World

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer
Reports of excellent wheat weather, bumper crops and prospect of immunity from ravages of black rust caused the price of wheat to drop below the $1 mark, for the first time since the beginning of the war in 1914. July wheat sold as low as 88 1/2-8 and September wheat also went down to this figure a day later. Throughout the wheat-producing countries, production has been reported so great that a large surplus was expected to remain on hand. This caused the sudden drop.
But Eugene Meyer Jr., managing director of the War Finance Corporation, and George E. Marcy, president of the American Grain Company, declare this attitude is merely over-anxiety and pessimism gone rampant. We have only a "reasonable carry-over" of wheat, they say, which should not cause any such radical drop in prices as occurred the last week.

Yet, from Canada come estimates of a 500,000,000 bushel wheat crop this year, as against a production of 390,000,000 bushels last year.

LABOR DISPLEASED
GOVERNMENT control, not ownership, of the United States anthracite industry is recommended by the coal commission, appointed to investigate this situation. It is expected the commission may make further recommendations concerning the bituminous industry in September.
The specific recommendation is that, in case of suspension of mining operations, the president be empowered to take over the mines, distribute coal and determine price, wages and compensation to land and mine owners.

To this President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor officially voices the objection of union labor. "Real penalties for the miners, phantom penalties for the operators," he declares, "seem to be the outstanding feature" of the recommendations. The miners will not give up their right to strike, he adds.

STRIKERS HIT AGAIN
No more country-wide railroad strike, like the one of last summer, is the promise of Attorney General Clegg. It is based on the action of Federal Judge Wilkeson of Chicago in making permanent the temporary restraining order he issued last fall against the striking railroad shopmen.
At the same time the United States

FIRES ALL LOOK ALIKE

This might have been photographed in any American city. It was taken in Tokio where fire gutted the former offices of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha opposite the city hall.

Court of Appeals ruled striking shopmen and their leaders, who had been cited for contempt of court for violating the Daugherty injunction, may not have the benefit of a jury trial. What action the labor unions are contemplating in reply to this dual blow has not been divulged.

FRANCE RESENTS
PREMIER BALDWIN'S much heralded speech on Britain's policy on the Ruhr situation failed to contain the extreme anti-French views the world believed it might. Instead Baldwin merely restated the British position of cooperation among the allies, and stressed a little further the desire not to demand more from Germany than it will be humanly possible for her to pay.

It was so mild a statement, apparently, that French officials and newspapers seemed to feel satisfied with England's stand on the matter. But after a little further study of the speech, resentment and disappointment displaced this feeling of satisfaction. For France still insists on making Germany pay what is demanded of her and of remaining in the occupied areas until she does pay—or at least until she gives positive assurances that she will pay.

"LIMITATIONS" UP
FRANCE has finally ratified the Washington treaty for the limitation of naval armaments. No reservations were attached, although after protracted effort to declare France's full liberty of action regarding the submarine provisions.
The four-power Pacific treaty also was ratified.

WETS ARE HAPPY
LOSS of two strategic offices in Congress, one by death of Senator William P. Dillingham of Vermont, the other by defeat of Representative Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota in last fall elections, may mean considerable weakening, if not actual loss, of dry control in the Senate. For, by the seniority rule, the chairmanship of the Senate Judiciary Committee will go to Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, a pronounced wet, and the similar position in the House will go to Representative George S. Graham of Pennsylvania, also a wet.
Each of these committees have ultimate control over the prohibition situation in Congress, and with these men as chairmen, hopes of the wets have raised considerably higher.

TRADE PICKS UP
THE balance of trade has swung back in favor of the United States, for the month of June, although it is far behind for the period covering the first half of this year. That is, we have been buying more than we were selling to other countries.
Last month our exports totaled $239,000,000, which was $1,000,000 over our imports. For the three preceding months, however, the balance of trade was against us to the tune of $162,000,000.

Economists say this is only to be expected, and should be greeted with gladness by us. For it shows Europe is again coming back into production enough to sell some of its stocks outside, and may soon be in a position to buy from us.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
Walter Hiers' latest Paramount comedy, "Sixty Cents an Hour," is due at the Eltinge Theatre for Monday and Tuesday. The romantic adventures of a soda clerk at $7.50 a week is the theme. He is a believer in Cope, bent on making his pet dream, that every day, in every way, he is getting richer and richer, come true. Jacqueline Logan is his leading woman.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

In the cool of a Summer morning, it is gratifying to take your seat at the wheel, conscious that the Touring Car will do your bidding faithfully the long day through.

It is that time-tried dependability—so vital to the pleasure and economy of motoring—which, more than any single factor, has endeared Dodge Brothers Touring Car to so many hundreds of thousands of owners.

One-eighth of the total weight of the car consists of chrome vanadium steel. Many more pieces of alloy steel are used in vital parts than normal wear requires.

THE CAPITOL
Shirley Mason, the dainty Fox star, will be seen at the Capitol Theatre for a two day's engagement starting Monday in her latest starring vehicle, "Youth Must Have Love," which was directed by Joseph Franz.

Miss Mason's latest production is based on the story of a young man unjustly accused of the murder of an old miser, who had gained wealth and position through the unfortunate circumstances of others.

How Earl Stannard, the young man, is vindicated through the never failing faith and unflinching aid of a girl, provides a romance of intrigue and adventure that promises to surpass all of Miss Mason's previous pictures for exceptional entertainment.

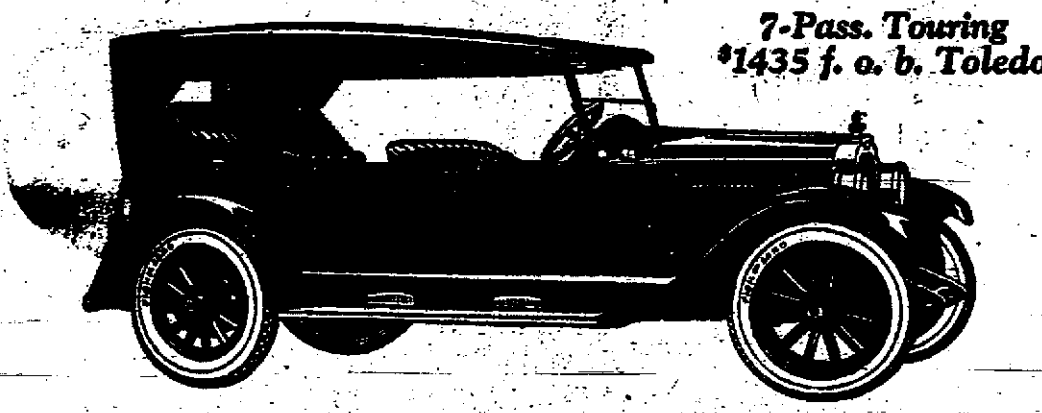

The story carries the audience through a series of unusual incidents and dramatic sequences to a powerful climax.

Among the many thrilling incidents in the play are the robbery of the old miser by his nephew, who causes his death while attempting to escape; the accusing finger pointed toward Earl Stannard; his daring escape from a pursuing posse; how a girl, bringing him food each day, is the cause of his hiding place being revealed; his unjust arrest for the crime and his escape from prison; the elopement of the youth and the girl with a posse following close behind; their capture when their automobile is wrecked and their subsequent vindication when the real criminal is revealed.

Why Havoline Is Such a Good Oil

More Power
Less Carbon

Every gallon of Havoline Oil comes from one refinery, where it is expertly refined from one type of crude. That means that every gallon of a certain grade of Havoline is exactly the same, no matter when or where you buy it.

That is Havoline's greatest contribution to the automobile owner. It enables him always to get an oil of unfailing exactness. And such an oil constantly used means fewer repair bills and a greater enjoyment in the use of a car.

Havoline is easy to get. There are thousands of dealers selling Havoline. They want to give you the most for your money. That's why they sell Havoline. The blue and red Havoline sign will tell you who they are.

To Dealers

We are the distributors of Havoline Oil in your district.

We shall be glad to tell you how to become a Havoline Dealer.

WM. B. HIBBS LAID TO REST

Given Military Honors by Company A Men at
Cemetery

Friends paid a last tribute to the memory of their neighbor and comrade William B. Hibbs, pioneer of the state and Civil War veteran who passed away late last week, at the funeral services held for him this morning at the McCabe Methodist church. Rev. S. F. Halfyard delivered the tribute to the memory of Mr. Hibbs. He spoke of his years as a valuable citizen in Burleigh county and his valorous service to the nation during the long years of the Civil War.

During the impressive service Mrs. John Larson and Mrs. W. G. Ackerson sang duets, "Beautiful Isle" and "Abide with Me." The many beautiful floral offerings about the church altar gave proof of the sympathetic feeling of friends and relations who were present at the funeral. Mrs. Esmond S. Dwyer, formerly Miss Florence Hibbs, Misses Viola and Beatrice Hibbs of Chicago, Ill., grand daughters of the late Mr. Hibbs were present at the services. Following the services the deceased was laid to rest at Fairview. A group of Company A men of the N. D. N. G. formed a military escort and fired the military salute over the grave.

Acting as pallbearers were D. J. McGillis, Charles Staley, Wm. Couch, Frank Wilcox, Judge W. S. Casselman, and B. F. Flannigan.

HAIL INSURANCE APPLICATIONS ARE RETURNED

Washburn, July 23.—Chris J. Hill, county auditor has had returned to him from the state hail insurance department one or two hundred applications for state hail insurance, which the department had marked void. The reason for this was that the application for insurance had been made out after the date when applications can be made. The law gives a farmer until June 10 to take out hail insurance and in the case of many of the farmers in the north part of the county this was not done until after June 10. The work is done by the assessors when they do their assessing, but it must be done before that date which is set by the law. In the case of several townships up north this was done after the date of June 10.

The farmers no doubt are under the impression that their crops are insured, but as the case is they are not. The townships affected are: 149-83, 148-90, 147-86, 148-88, 150-90, 150-91, 149-90 and 149-86. This last township had every one of the applications rejected.

Margaret Merle Works in Stock During Summer So She'll Sing Better in Winter

Margaret Merle has a vocation and an avocation. Winters she prefers the vocation, which is ballad singing. Summers she joins a stock company and begins her avocation, which is acting.

"No, it's not that I'm particularly energetic," she denied, smiling. "As a matter of fact, I can't keep up my vocation without my avocation. Because today, if you'll notice, songs are no longer sung, they're acted. Or at least they must be acted as well as sung if they're to get over.

"The modern audience wants motion, zip, something doing every single minute, and the singer who doesn't give it will soon find herself off the boards. Take this cunning thing I'm rehearsing now, I'll Hop, Skip and Jump into My Mammy's Arms! I sing and suit the action to the words. It never fails to get the house. If Moon Is Out of Reach, Try Spotlight Substitute

Helen Moretti Finds Singing Urge Will Always Find a Way

If you can't have the moon, the spotlight makes a very good substitute. At least so Helen Moretti has found.

Helen grew up expecting to be a grand opera singer. She came of a long line of operatic stars and she had a voice that was said to be a credit to the family. But there was a serious drawback—Helen hadn't the money for the intensive training that opera demands.

"I was determined to sing, yet I had to earn money," Miss Moretti explains. It looked like an unsolvable problem until one day the head of a vaudeville agency happened to hear her warbling. He offered her a contract at more than I could have made in grand opera after all my training, and I took him up.

"Since then I've learned several things. One is that vaudeville is not necessarily low-brow. Also, that in it you meet a wider range of people, and if you have the 'uplift' instinct you can help educate them.

"Take for instance 'Tell Me a Story,' a fox trot ballad I sing, written by the composers of that unforgettable 'Whispering.' It's high class and I have trained my audience to like it and ask for a repetition of it. They prefer it, indeed, to other selections.

"So that's why I tell the young girl who's eating her heart out over grand opera today to try vaudeville. She'll like it and pretty soon the spotlight will seem brighter to her than the moon ever did."

There will be due on such mortgage at the date of sale the sum of Eight Hundred Seventy-nine and 78-100 Dollars ($879.78), together with the costs of this foreclosure.

MARKET NEWS

GAINS MADE IN WHEAT

Price Rises After Starting Lower on Chicago Board

Chicago, July 23. — Although wheat started lower in price today the market soon scored gains. Heavy receipts of newly harvested wheat estimated at 1,061 carloads were chiefly responsible for the initial downturn in values. On the other hand, unfavorable weather in the Northwest and reports of crop damage by black rust together with scantiness of offerings in the Southwest gave a subsequent advantage to the bull side. Opening prices which ranged from one-eighth to three-quarters lower with September 98 1/2 to 98 3/4 and December $1.01 1/4 to $1.02 were followed by a sharp recovery to above Saturday's finish.

Persistent hedging sales and slowness of export demand more than offset in the wheat market today the influence of all bullish factors. Early gains were wiped out and the close was unsettled, 1/4 to 3/4 cents net lower, with September 98 1/2 to 98 3/4 and December $1.01 1/4.

CATTLE PRICES SHARPLY LOWER

South St. Paul, Minn. (Close of market Saturday).—Cattle receipts showed a good sized increase this week, the run totaling around 17,250 head, compared with actual marketings of 12,459 last week. Demand was not equal to the increased supply and prices for most classes declined 25 to 50 cents or more.

Grain-fed fat steers and yearlings are selling within a quotable price range of $8 to $11 with best lot in this week's trade $10.25. Grass-fat offerings are selling largely from $5.50 to $6.50 with a few up to $7.50 or somewhat higher.

Grass-fat heifers are selling largely from $4.50 to $6, a few of the better offerings up to $7, grass-fat cows mostly $2.25 to $5, a few up to around $6. Canners are bringing mostly $2.25 to $2.50, cutters up to $3. Bologna bulls are going at $4 to $5, only lightweights under $4.50.

Best light veal calves sold today from $9 to $10 with only a few over $9.50. Seconds sold from $4.50 to $5 for the most part.

Prices of stockers and feeders were reduced 25 to 50 cents or more. Slightly choice selected feeders are quotable from $7.50 to $9, but none were included in this week's receipts, best here selling in load lots at $6.75 bulk of common and medium grades at the close $4 to $5.50. Then steers of age with an inferior grade are going at $2.50 to $4, according to weight. Marketings of hogs continued generous and in excess of current requirements and the market is closing 25 to 50 cents higher than a week ago, closing range $5.25 to $5.85, bulk $5.50 to $5.85, bulk of good pigs $5.35.

Better grades of native lambs closed mostly at $12.50 or about $1 lower, cull at $7 or 50 cents lower than a week. Native ewes have sold within a range of $3 to $6 all week, or about steady for the period.

DON J. SLATER, Local Representative.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

GEORGE A. BOYD

By NEA Service. New York, July 23.—Here's a man with a record of holding the same job 58 years—and absent from work only four days and never once late.

He is George A. Boyd, oldest employee of the publishing house of Harper & Brothers.

"I went to work on a Friday," says Boyd, who went on the job the year the Civil War ended, "and I've been lucky ever since."

Boyd says his recipe for punctuality is to time himself in the morning so he reaches the office half an hour before the time for starting work.

"I always get there at 8:30," he says, "so I'll be sure to be there at 9."

Lacks Spirit With World Champion, Goes Big With Near Tail-Enders

By NEA Service. Boston, July 23.—How many ball players would welcome a transfer from a world champion to a tail-end and get out and hustle?

When mid-season trades were made in the past the star who was being shuffled off from the pot of gold was rewarded financially to iron the kinks in his temper.

It frequently was agreed to split one or two full shares in a world series among the players figuring in trades.

But this custom was wiped out when the major leaguers put the ban on trades after June 15.

The recent exchange between the Giants and the Boston Braves has resulted in the development of a catcher who could not be handled by John J. McGraw.

Earl Smith, instead of kicking over the traces when he received his release clip to the Boston Braves immediately pushed Mickey O'Neil to the bench, played so brilliantly for the Braves during the first week that Manager Fred Mitchell said he was confident that by 1924 Smith would be rated the leading catcher in the league.

Smith and McGraw could not agree. Heavy fines assessed against the catcher could not change his habits.

Smith insisted upon breaking training rules and engaging in many arguments with the director of the champions.

Joining the Braves, Smith changed his tactics. He has caught practically all of the games for the past two weeks, was placed in sixth position in the batting order, has hit around a .400 clip and although the Braves have been unable to fall heir to a winning streak Smith continues to play brilliantly.

The National League always has been noted for brilliant catchers. The names of Johnny Kling, Roger Bresnahan, Frank Bowerman, Jimmy Archer, Harry Doolin, Pat Moran, George Gibson and others have been at the top.

When these veterans started slipping there were no promising youngsters to take their place. In the last few years, however, the Superbas have come along with DeBerry and Taylor, the Phillies with Henline, the Cubs with O'Farrell, the Pirates with Goetz, the Reds with Hargrave and the Cardinals with McCurdy.

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans. With runner on second and third and two out, the batsman received a base on balls.

The fourth ball was a wild pitch, the runners on second and third scoring, while the batsman reached second. In running to second the batter failed to touch first base.

The first baseman called for the ball. It was thrown to him, and he touched first base. The umpire declared the runner out who was standing on second. What about the two runs that had crossed the plate?

There are runners on second and third, and two men out. With the count three balls and two strikes the next pitch at which the batter struck was a bad ball. It eluded the catcher and went to the grandstand.

The runner on second and third crossed the plate and the batsman reached second.

The batsman in going to second failed to touch first. The ball was thrown to that base and the umpire ruled him out, retiring the side. What about the two runs that had crossed the plate?

THE INTERPRETATION

In the first case, where the batsman received a base on balls and failed to touch first base, when he managed to reach second, because the fourth ball was a wild pitch, the two runs scored.

The batsman was entitled to first base, hence there was no chance to make a play in which the batsman failed to reach first because he failed to touch that base on his way to second.

In the other case, where the two runs scored on a third strike that was a wild pitch, the batsman reaching second but failing to touch first, the two runs did not score.

Failure to touch first on the wild third strike simply made a third out in which the batsman failed to reach first, and no runs can score on such a play.

Lose Sunday to St. Louis But Are Expected to Make Hard Fennant Fight

Chicago, July 23.—Major league baseball followers have their eyes on Cincinnati today, for the Reds, runners-up in the National League race, have begun a home series, opening against St. Louis yesterday for what should be a hard series. The league-leading Giants, less than four games ahead of the Reds, open away from home, playing Philadelphia today after which they will rest two days and open a series in Chicago Thursday.

The Reds yesterday slipped a bit lower by losing to St. Louis, 2 to 0. The Giants took advantage by defeating the Phillies, 5 to 4, at the Polo Grounds. Rain caused the calling-off of the game in the home-half of the fifth. In the American League the plunging New York Yankees closed their second invasion of the west, by mauling Detroit 7 to 4. The victory was the Yankees' 12th out of 18 games in the west on their second invasion. The second place Cleveland Indians lost further ground by dropping the third game to the Senators on their home field, 3 to 1.

The Brooklyn Robins and the Boston Nationals split a double-header at Brooklyn.

Rube Marquard's ancient arm pitched Boston to victory in the first game, 13 to 6, but Brooklyn came back in the second, winning 7 to 5. Pittsburgh and Chicago were idle, Chicago White Sox gave the Boston Red Sox a 9 to 2 thrashing at Chicago, largely through the heavy hitting of Shueley and the expensive Willie Kamm. The St. Louis Browns defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 4, at St. Louis.

Beginning today Greater New York will have no major league baseball for five consecutive days, a situation unprecedented in the memory of the old-diamond followers.

GAINS MADE IN WHEAT

Price Rises After Starting Lower on Chicago Board

Chicago, July 23.—Although wheat started lower in price today the market soon scored gains. Heavy receipts of newly harvested wheat estimated at 1,061 carloads were chiefly responsible for the initial downturn in values. On the other hand, unfavorable weather in the Northwest and reports of crop damage by black rust together with scantiness of offerings in the Southwest gave a subsequent advantage to the bull side. Opening prices which ranged from one-eighth to three-quarters lower with September 95 1/2 to 98 1/2 and December 91 1/2 to 94 1/2 were followed by upturns to above Saturday's finish.

CATTLE PRICES SHARPLY LOWER

South St. Paul, Minn. (Close of market Saturday).—Cattle receipts showed a good sized increase this week, the run totaling around 17,250 head, compared with actual marketings of 12,450 last week. Demand was not equal to the increased supply and prices of most classes declined 25 to 50 cents or more.

Grass-fat heifers are selling largely from $4.50 to $6, a few of the better offerings on up to $7, grass-fat cows mostly $3.25 to $5, a few up to around $6. Canners are bringing mostly $2.25 to $2.50, cutters on up to $3. Bologna bulls are going at $4 to $5, only lightweights under $4.50.

Best light veal calves sold today from $9 to $10 with only a few over $9.50. Seconds sold from $4.50 to $5 for the most part.

Prices of stockers and feeders were reduced 25 to 50 cents or more. Strictly choice selected feeders are quotable from $7.50 to $8, but none were included in this week's receipts, best here selling in load lots at $6.75 bulk of common and medium grades at the close $4 to $5.50. Then a number of age with an inferior grade are going at $2.50 to $4, according to weight.

Markings of hogs continued generous and in excess of current requirements and the market is closing 25 to 50 cents lower than a week ago, closing range $5.25 to $6.85, bulk $5.50 to $6.85, bulk of common $5.25.

Best grades of native lambs closed mostly at $12.50 or about $1 lower, cull at $7 or 50 cents lower than a week. Native ewes have sold within a range of $3 to $6 all week, or about steady for the period.

DON J. SLATER, Local Representative.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, July 23.—Hog receipts 53,000. Mostly 25 to 40 cents higher. Big packers unwilling to pay advances. Top $8.05. Beef receipts 17,000. Boyd says his recipe for punctuality is to time himself in the morning so he reaches the office half an hour before the time for starting work.

"I always get there at 8:30," he says, "so I'll be sure to be there at 9."

135 POUNDERS WILL MEET

Leonard and Tendler to Battle For the Lightweight Crown

New York, July 23.—The fifth world's championship battle for the lightweight crown in 1893 will be the magnet which is expected to attract a throng of nearly 80,000 persons to night when Benny Leonard risks his lightweight title in a 15-round match with Lew Tendler of Philadelphia, at the Yankee stadium.

This season has been one of adversity for ring champions; three out of four world's crowns having changed hands to date, but Leonard is no less confident on that account.

The 135-pound king proclaimed himself today in the best condition of his career.

Tendler always was ready for a slashing struggle. He had the lightweight scepter almost within his grasp a year ago when he had Leonard topping momentarily in the 8th round of their 12-round encounter at Boyle's thirty acres.

Both fighters have deposited forfeits of $10,000 each to guarantee that they will tip the beam inside the 135 pound limit when they weigh in this afternoon. Champion and challenger are hard hitters and good ring strategists.

WM. B. HIBBS LAID TO REST

Given Military Honors by Company A Men at
Cemetery

Friends paid a last tribute to the memory of their neighbor and comrade William B. Hibbs, pioneer of the state and Civil War veteran who passed away late last week, at the funeral services held for him this morning at the McCabe Methodist church. Rev. S. F. Halford delivered the tribute to the memory of Mr. Hibbs. He spoke of his years as a valuable citizen in Burleigh county, and his valorous service to the nation during the long years of the Civil War.

During the impressive service Mrs. Hibbs and Mrs. W. G. Ackerson sang duets, "Beautiful Isle" and "God with Me." The many beautiful floral offerings about the church altar gave proof of the sympathetic feeling of friends and relations who were present at the funeral. Mrs. Edmund S. Dwyer, formerly Mrs. Florence Hibbs, Misses Viola and Beatrice Hibbs of Chicago, Ill., grand daughters of the late Mr. Hibbs were present at the services. Following the services the deceased was laid to rest at Fairview. A group of Company A men of the 1st D. N. C. formed military escort, and fired the military salute over the grave.

Acting as pallbearers were D. J. McGillis, Charles Staley, Wm. Couch, Frank Wilcox, Judge W. S. Casselman, and B. F. Flannigan.

HAIL INSURANCE APPLICATIONS ARE RETURNED

Washburn, July 22.—Chris. J. Hill, county auditor has had returned to him from the state hail insurance department one or two hundred applications for state hail insurance, which the department had marked void. The reason for this was that the application for insurance had been made out after the date when applications can be made. The law gives a farmer until June 10 to take out hail insurance and in the case of many of the farmers in the north part of the county this was not done until after June 10. The work is done by the assessors when they do their assessing, but it must be done before that date which is set by the law. In the case of several townships up north this was done after the date.

The farmers no doubt are under the impression that their crops are insured, but as the case is they are not. The townships affected are: 49-33, 149-90, 147-36, 148-38, 150-90, 49-92, 149-90 and 149-36. This last township had every one of the applications rejected.

If Moon Is Out of Reach, Try Spotlight Substitute

Helen Moretti Finds Singing Urge Will Always Find a Way

If you can't have the moon, the spotlight makes a very good substitute. At least so Helen Moretti has found.

Helen grew up expecting to be a grand opera singer. She came of a long line of operatic stars and she had a voice that was said to be a credit to the family. But there was a serious drawback — Helen hadn't the money for the intensive training that opera demands.

"I was determined to sing, yet I had to earn money," Miss Moretti explains. It looked like an unsolvable problem until one day the head of a vaudeville agency happened to hear me warbling. He offered me a contract at more than I could have made in grand opera after all my training, and I took him up.

"Since then I've learned several things. One is that vaudeville is not necessarily low-brow. Also, that in it you meet a wider range of people, and if you have the 'uplift' instinct you can help educate them.

"Take for instance 'Tell Me a Story,' a fox trot ballad I sing, written by the composers of that unforgettable 'Whispering.' It's a high class and I have trained my voice to like it and ask for a repetition of it. They prefer it, indeed, to other selections.

"So that's why I tell the young girl who's eating her heart out over grand opera today to try vaudeville. She'll like it and pretty soon the spotlight will seem brighter to her than the moon ever did."

MILWAUKEE LADY TELLS HOW TROUBLE WAS ENDED

"Tanlac ended my troubles completely over two years ago and I haven't had a trace of them since, so now I can testify to both the quick and lasting results the medicine gives," said Mrs. Othilie Guelow, of 558 9th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

"For two or three years I suffered from indigestion after nearly every meal. Gas would form, causing awful pains in the pit of my stomach, and press against my heart until it palpitated fearfully. I couldn't even rest at night for my troubles and finally began to lose weight and felt weak and run-down all the time.

"While taking Tanlac the indigestion disappeared and I could eat anything and sleep like a child. I regained all my lost weight, felt fine and still feel that way. If I ever need any medicine again, I'll go straight for Tanlac. It hasn't an equal."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WALL STREET
Do you know how Wall Street got its name? Back in 1653, when New York City was known as New Amsterdam and was owned by the Dutch, it feared an attack from nearby English colonies. To keep out invaders, the inhabitants built a wall of logs and thick planks. The highway that gradually came into existence inside the stockade was called Wall Street.

The wooden wall was only 12 feet high, with sharp points along the top. To withstand battering-rams, it was braced on the south or inner side by banked-up earth.
New Amsterdam finally was captured by the forces of the Duke of York and renamed New York in honor of the captor. It wasn't much of a military victory, at the time, only 208 defenders surrendering.

The 208 might have done some tall fighting if they had known the future value of the dirt road inside the wooden wall.

It gives you an idea of how primitive things were, less than 300 years ago, when you stop to consider that a stockade 12 feet high was considered a reasonable defense against an attacking army.

Compare with modern fortifications and you realize the progress made by the devilish ingenuity of man in the matter of military defenses.

One large bomb, dropped from a modern airplane, would have annihilated the old wall and most of the village it protected.

By another two years France expects to have 7000 military airplanes of high-power battle type. She already has 1250, against England's 600, America's 445 and Japan's 250.

The whole scheme and also the futility of armaments is graphically illustrated by the comparison of modern armaments with the wooden stockade from which Wall Street got its name.

Go back in history and you find men inventing shields that were impenetrable by spear or arrow. Then came gunpowder and the bullet that would pierce shields. It's a merry-go-round system, alternately working out a means of protection, then a means to counteract the protection.

The steel industry one year perfects a battleship armor-plate that no shell can penetrate. Then comes a shell that penetrates anything existing to date. Then a stronger armor-plate, next a more powerful shell . . . so on, generation after generation.

The armaments race goes on now, as in the past, thinly disguised. Some how humanity cannot get the fact through its dense brain, that there is no perfect protection or defense and no last word in offensive weapons.

No matter what any one invents for offense or defense, some one soon discovers a device that counteracts it.

SHANTY DAYS

Boys don't seem to be building shanties as much as they used to. And they're missing a lot, for the boyhood shanty looms as one of the most delightful spots in the memory of the man whose hair is white or beginning to turn gray above the ears.

The old-time shanty back yonder was our first big expression of the creative instinct. It taught us to build with our hands. It necessitated teamwork that instilled into us a sense of business organization. The community spirit was developed during the erection of the shanty and its management after completion.

The shanty was an expression of a certain period of American life. It dated from pioneer days when lads built small huts out of poles, in imitation of their father's log cabins.

Lumber is too scarce and expensive now. An outlay of at least $50 would be necessary to put up a shanty that the lads of 20 or more years ago would have considered a respectable piece of work.

The decided changes that are taking place in our civilization are most strikingly illustrated in the changed pastimes of youth. The shanty is not the only institution that is passing. That charming boyhood highway, the alley, is passing gradually, a victim of congestion and high real estate values. And the alley, where it still survives in the modern city, usually is only a ghostly ghost of the old-time alleys overgrown with weeds, canyoned by high board fences and littered with old iron and bones for the junkman.

The movie serial has taken the place of Nick Carter, and machine-made cigarettes have displaced grapevine leaves and "Indian cigars." The old order changes. Youth concentrates on radio. It forecasts a coming generation of highly developed scientific powers, but at a fearful loss in boyhood enjoyments and pastimes.

LABOR DRAFT

Bulgaria is trying out a labor draft. It's modeled after the military conscription system by which all able-bodied males have to serve a certain length of time in the army.

This labor draft applies to women as well as men. It requires all members of both sexes—unless legitimately entitled to exemption—to perform a certain amount of work on behalf of the state.

The period of service is eight months for men and four months for women. It may be demanded at any age between 20 and 40 years for men and 16 and 30 for women.

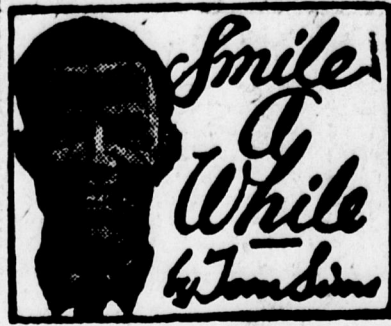

Here, we believe, is something new in history—conscription for peace-time service.

HIRED

The steady tendency in our civilization is to get the same results with fewer employed. This constantly releases man power for the operation of new industries and expansion of old ones—that is, a gradual increase in our average standard of living.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Suddenly Rainbow Land turned forty colors. Not pretty pinks and blues and yellows as it had been all along, but ugly colors like red and ink and smoke.

At the same time there was a loud crash of thunder.
"Goodness!" cried Nancy, clapping her hands over her ears. "What's happened?"

"I know it!" exclaimed Mister Sky. "Did the rainbow door fall down?" asked Nick. "And what's that funny noise?"

"It's old Cross Patch at his tricks," stormed Mister Sky. "Cross Patch is the jealous wizard who spoils everybody's fun. He has found the magic push-button that opens the rainbow door and he's sneaked in."

"He carries a magic stick he calls 'Old Harry,'" went on Mister Sky. "Bow, 'and every time he waves it somebody becomes unhappy. That roaring noise is his voice and the other noise you hear is crying."

"Who's crying?" asked Nancy curiously.
"Why, the poor Rainbow Landers," said Mister Sky. "The Noses and the Dummies and the Puffs and the Sneezes and everybody. They aren't happy any more, because Cross Patch has waved his horrid stick and made them unhappy. The Noses, too, no doubt, have discovered that their ears they were so proud of, are not beautiful, and the Noses have probably learned the same thing about their noses."

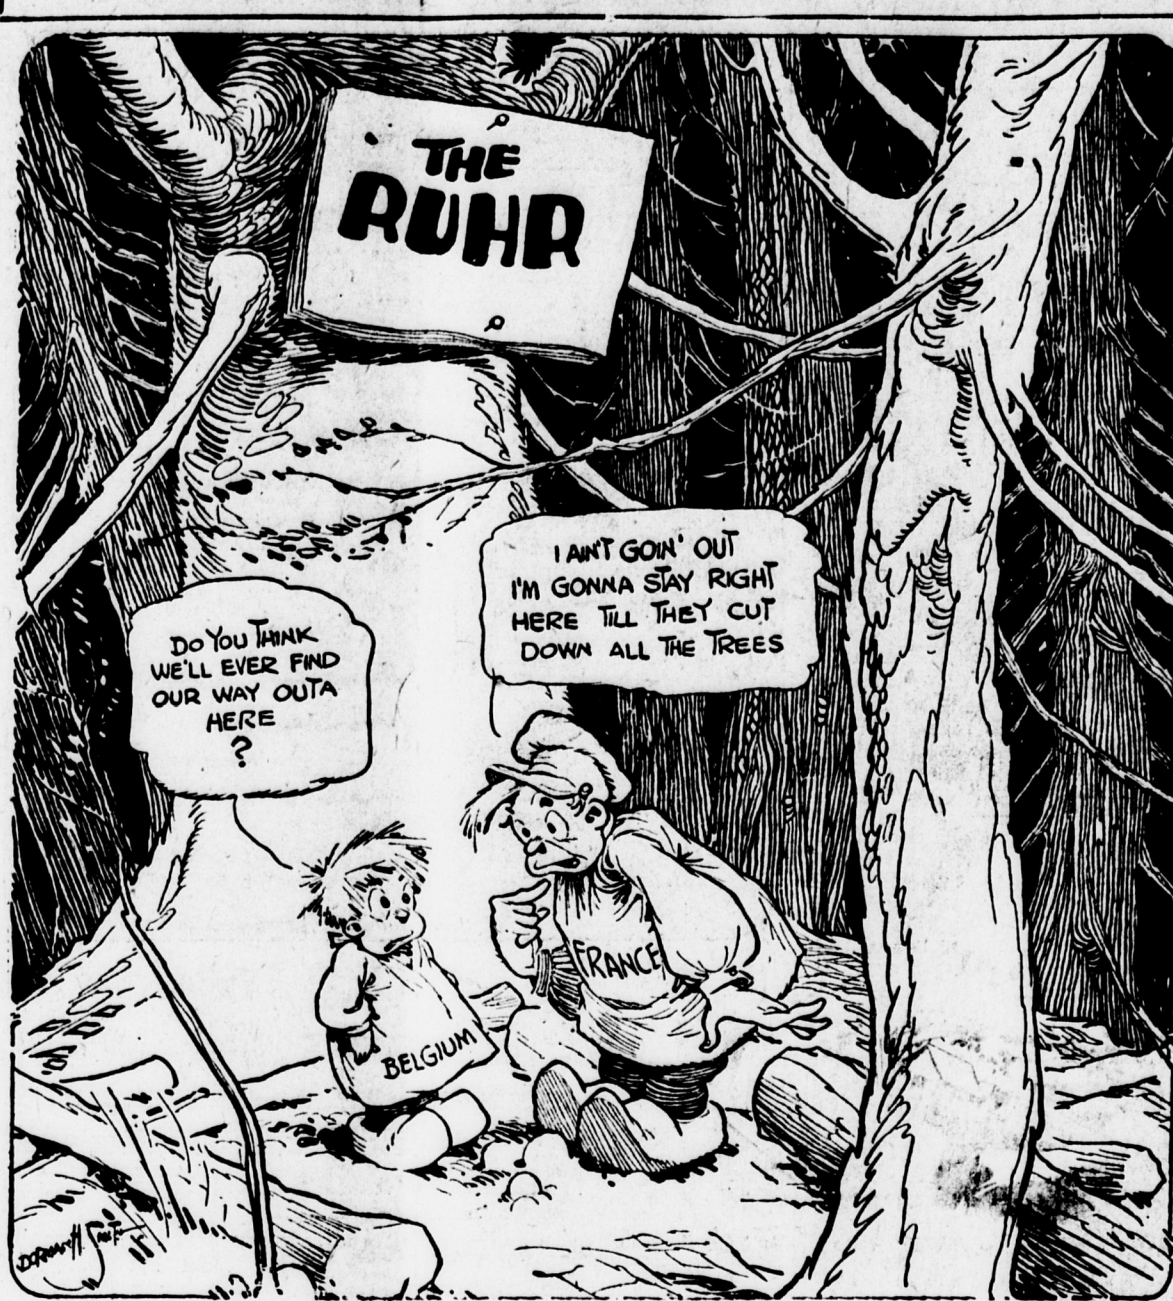

"Oh, we'll have to help them," said the little girl.

LOST IN THE WOODS

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN

PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.

From now on, my dear Syd, I am going to conduct all my business with you through the mail. I can't understand why you shy at coming over here. You answer my letters with celerity and dispatch. Are you afraid of me or are you afraid of Leslie?

I just cannot understand why you do not come to see us.
Speaking of being afraid, I'm afraid of something that happened recently where the goddess of luck played the cards out to me.

I wonder if you ever met Harry Ellington's wife. She is a very decent sort of a girl and was one of the gayest and brightest young women in town before Harry married her.

For some reason she has completely changed since she married Harry. She has settled down as many girls do into a perfect little home body, while Harry has seemed to be more of a rounder than before.

I really felt very sorry for her and the other day I insisted that Harry should bring her up to our apartment to dinner. Leslie took to her immediately, just why I do not know, for she has changed greatly since her marriage. She is perfect colorless now as far as I can see. Leslie, however, seemed to see something in her that was there before her marriage.

The girls made an engagement with each other to go shopping the next day. Neither Harry nor I knew of this.

After they had fussed around town most of the day, they went into Martelle's for tea. Now here is where I come in.

Just after luncheon Harry called me up and said, "Old man, I am lunching with Edith Chapman and I am sure you would like to know her. We're going in the country for a drive and expect to pick up a friend of hers, Miss Dazell. If you'd like to make it a foursome for tea at Martelle's, let me know."

I was very much put out that business kept me from going on this party, to tell you the truth, Syd, I forgot all about Leslie and it seemed perfectly all right to lunch with any woman in a public and thoroughly respectable place like Martelle's, but—

I had reason to give obligations to my goddess of luck that evening when Leslie came home and told me that she and Mrs. Ellington had gone to Martelle's to tea.

While they were there, Walter Burke joined them and later who should come in, of course, but Harry and Miss Chapman? They hadn't taken up Miss Dazell because I could not make one of the party.

I felt myself getting hot all over as Leslie told me this, for you see I didn't know how she would take it especially as I had found a little fault with her and Mrs. Ellington for allowing Walter Burke to join them.

I wonder if I will ever remember that a married man has the same responsibility in keeping himself out of the mouths of the gossips that his wife has? As it is, tonight I am promising myself that in the future I shall be a very good little boy. It is a model young man that is writing you this letter, old chap.

In the meantime I am trying to think of just how I shall break up the friendship between Ruth Ellington and Leslie. There is something inexplicable behind those icy eyes of Ruth's. She knows too much about our sex. I would not like Leslie to be as self-contained or as sophisticated as she seems to be.

Haven't had a word from Paula Perier for ages. I guess that book is closed. JACK.

Editorial Review

PERIODIC REVOLT

The question that has been asked for some weeks past has been answered. Minnesota, for years a rock-ribbed republican state, has now twice in close succession replaced republican senators with men of a radical type, standing for proposals of a strange nature. First Kellogg, and now Nelson! First Shipstead, and now Johnson!

These radical movements occur with a certain periodicity in American politics. They are natural reactions. In this case the question of moment is whether the farmer-labor tendency will go to the point of forcing a modification of policies of one of the major parties, or will progress to the point of the formation of a definite third party.

Recently, at Chicago, the farmer-labor party convention was virtually captured by the radicals and a split occurred. It was thought by some that this demonstration of the "boring from within" tactics of the communists would give fright to the Minnesota republican radicals and cause them to stand fast by their old party in the senatorial election soon to occur. But yesterday's vote indicated that the farmers and workmen of the state did not consider the Chicago affair at all, or else concluded that had nothing to do with it, and being intent upon putting a man of party independence in the senate, proceeded with that purpose to the end of a big majority—Washington Star.

IS A PROTEST

Choice of Magnus Johnson for United States senator from Minnesota has succeeded the late Knute Nelson as a vote of anger and protest that should make the Harding administration sit up and take notice. The size of his majority is an indication of a protest rather than a program, and there is no denying that it is a protest that should shake the country into a realization of facts. There was no politics in the Minnesota election, the vote cast for the democratic candidate was almost negligible. Though sent from both old parties voted for Johnson.

Behind the protest and surging all about the cities and towns of Minnesota, rallies for Johnson were also the wild eyed radicals and acetics of every type who saw in their candidate a man who would stand up for the little fellow and do his bidding. They did not seek a panacea for economic ills through any ideas or platform Johnson might advocate but they reckoned him safely against the established order of things.

But one inexorable fact is plainly shown: Mr. Harding has lost his working majority in the senate, and unless his appeal reaches the "irreconcilables" and the mid-landers in an unexpected way, he has no promise of putting across his program in the next congress.

The leadership of the party is demoralized, even Lodge having no stomach for the abuse of power for the sake of power in the administration. In the senate, even if the president were the leader who would attack the situation, undemanded, the outcome would be doubtful. And while Mr. Harding is in Alaska he should be in careful training for the political fight of his life when he returns to Washington. — Omaha World-Herald.

THE YELLOW SEVEN

THE BOX TRICK

BY EDMUND SNELL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, is worried because jewels are stolen from Lady Stornaway while she is a guest at his home. Chai-Hung, influential Chinese, promises to assist in the recovery of the jewels. Peter Pennington, detective, is hired by the government to capture the leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Monica Viney, sister of Captain Hewitt, persuades Officer Dawson to take her to a Chinese gambling den.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She could have sworn the Chinaman who manipulated the inverted shells was none other than the man in whom her brother had declared absolute confidence—Chai-Hung!

But, clearly as the swiftly-moving events of that momentous evening were imprinted on her memory, she was destined to witness a somewhat puzzling "curtain" to her singularly poignant drama, a climax that for some moments, at least, forced her to believe she had been the victim of an optical illusion. For, as she turned to murmur her thanks to the inevitable Dawson, her glance wandered from the flight of white steps to a long cane chair at the far end of the commissioner's verandah.

Clothed in a suit of immaculate whites, breathing with the placid regularity of a healthy child, Chinese Pennington slumbered peacefully!

Chai-Hung drew in a deep breath, folded his umbrella, and handed it to a waiting coolie.

Hewitt moved impatiently.
"Might as well get this unpleasant duty over," he suggested. "A cabin would be the handiest place, don't you think, Pennington?"

They crossed the gangway and passed into the first state-room that had been left unoccupied. Pennington closed the door.
"Can I offer you a drink, Mr. Chai-Hung?" asked the commissioner.

The oriental shook his head and, producing a cigar-case quaintly embroidered with a silver dragon, glanced inquiringly round.

"I have your permission to smoke?" "Most certainly," Hewitt hastened to assure him. "No, thanks. Not for me. If you don't mind, I'll have a cigar."

Pennington, seated on the edge of the berth, his hands stuck deep in his pockets, declined also. Chai-Hung lit up carefully and paced the matches on to the commissioner.

Ten minutes later, both Englishmen emerged.
Hewitt dropped into a chair and, tilting back his sun-helmet, mopped a moist brow.

"Now are you satisfied?" he demanded.
"Perfectly," declared Pennington enigmatically. "What d'you say to some liquid refreshment?"

"If it weren't so confoundingly hot," said the commissioner. "I'd order a double brandy! As far as I can see, you've made the perfect stew of the whole affair. I'd have put my shirt on Chai-Hung—and I was right. I can tell you—if you don't already know it—that our mutual acquaintance is mortally offended with the way you went over him."

"I'll admit I was thorough," chuckled the other, signaling to a steward who lounged in the doorway. "I suppose we've just about time to quench our thirsts and get ashore before she sails."

He ordered slings.
The deep-throated note of the vessel's siren reverberated suddenly and, at that moment, Chai-Hung emerged from the cabin, surveying the dead-end of the cigar he had laid aside. Both men rose, but the benign smile with which the oriental greeted them drove the intended apology from Hewitt's lips.

"Efficiency, Mr. Pennington," he said, "is the keynote of success. I sincerely hope that before we meet again you will have been successful in your search."

With disarming cordiality, he dropped a hand on the shoulder of each and accompanied them to the gangway.

Hewitt was on the point of crossing to the jetty when Chai-Hung laughed.
"You will never cure yourself of that little failing, I'm afraid," he asserted blandly. "Do you mind returning me my matches?"

The commissioner dropped his cane.
"You don't mean to say—? By Gad! I have thought!" He produced the missing box.

The oriental, still smiling, reached out for it, but, before his fingers could close on it, Pennington's had intervened.

"Just a minute," he murmured apologetically, a queer light in his eyes. "Mine happens to be out, too!" He turned his back and, withdrawing the flimsy cover, deliberately emptied the legitimate contents into his palm. He let the matches fall, one by one, to the deck, and Hewitt, obsessed with a hazy notion that his friend's recent energies had turned his brain, stepped close up to him and peered apprehensively over his shoulder.

Yielding to the pressure of Pennington's finger-nail, the false bottom of the box came away, and there, in the cunningly contrived recess it had so effectively screened, lay a dream of platinum and diamonds—the myriad facets flashing in the tropic sunlight!

The commissioner recoiled in speechless amazement. Presently he found his tongue.
"Good Lord! How on earth—? He must have guessed—!" He choked suddenly and passed a weary hand across his forehead. "He had the damned effrontery to give 'em to me!" He swung round savagely. "Here, Mr. Chai-Hung—!"

But the great Chai-Hung was gone!

At 5 o'clock a course luncheon was served at a long table decorated with ferns and a large bouquet of pink and white gladioli. All the table appointments were charmingly carried out in pink and white. Two large birthday cakes, one in pink and one in white, each bearing two candles of the same color as the cake, occupied a place of honor at the ends of the table. At the place of each guest appeared a blue whistling bird, chocolate bars, gum, spanagapanes "golly crackers" which added greatly to the liveliness of the birthday luncheon. In each of the crackers was found a carnival cap, a whistle, and a comic rhyme. The rhymes were read by the children during the delightful luncheon.

The "golly crackers" were a birthday gift to Jackie from his godmother, Miss Frances Lichtner of Chicago, a personal friend of Mrs. Zuger. During the luncheon Jackie was presented with a telegram from Mrs. Laurie Murphy of Edgeley, a friend and admirer of Jack's wishing him many happy returns of the day. "And," said Rose Wilton tri-umphantly, "we just got sick of advertising Georgia and the Carolinas and all those states, when there was good old Indiana that raised us and looked out for us and is really home, sweet home to us. So we collected a Hoosier song writer who is a friend of ours and said—

"Now you write us a piece about Indiana; that's what you do," broke in Mary in a voice so much like her sister's that you would never have dreamed one had stopped speaking and the other begun if you hadn't been watching their lips.

"And he did," Rose took up the tale promptly. "It's 'Blue Hoosier Blues', a perfectly grand wailly fox trot, and maybe you think we don't sing it with ex-pression!"

They do, and the song has car-ried the team billed as the "Wil-ton Sisters" right to the top of all the programs they grace.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL
A drama of intrigue and mystery counterbalanced by a romance of ad-venture and love will be seen in Shirley Mason's next William Fox pro-duction, "Youth Must Have Love," which will be shown at the Capitol theater tonight and Tuesday.

A cast of exceptional screen ar-tists, including Wallace McDonald, who plays opposite the star, Landers Stevens, the heavy; J. P. Lockney, an exceptional character actor and Cecil van Auker, who has played prominent parts in a number of recent pro-ductions, supports Miss Mason in "Youth Must Have Love."

The story is based on a youth, un-justly accused of the murder of an old miser and how a beautiful girl's faith and love and persistent efforts free him of the charge. How the real criminal is detected when it ap-peared he had covered his tracks in such a manner as to prevent discov-ery, provides a mystery element to this play, which surpasses anything the youthful Fox star has been seen in for a long time.

THE ELTINGE
Walter Hiers appears as a happy-go-lucky soda dispenser who believes in Coudism, in Sixty Cents an Hour, showing at the Eltinge theater today and Tuesday. Jacqueline Logan is the object of his affections. "Some Punches and Judy," round five of the "Fighting Blood" stories and Fate News are also showing at the Eltinge Monday and Tuesday.

Birthday Party For Jack Zuger Is Social Event

One of the big social events for the "younger" set of the city was the birthday party given by Mrs. Alfred Zuger in honor of her son, Jackie's tenth birthday Saturday afternoon. Twenty little boys and girls were entertained with a theatre party at the Eltinge at 2:30 o'clock, the children being driven to and from the theatre by Dr. M. W. Roan, Ray Bergeson and Mrs. Zuger.

At 5 o'clock a course luncheon was served at a long table decorated with ferns and a large bouquet of pink and white gladioli. All the table appointments were charmingly carried out in pink and white. Two large birthday cakes, one in pink and one in white, each bearing ten candles of the same color as the cake, occupied a place of honor at the ends of the table. At the place of each guest appeared a blue whistling bird, chorale bars, gum, spanagapaneas "golly crackers" which added greatly to the liveliness of the birthday luncheon. In each of the crackers was found a carnival cap, a whistle, and comic rhymes. The rhymes were read by the children during the delightful luncheon.

The "golly crackers" were a birthday gift to Jackie from his godmother, Miss Frances Lichner of Chicago, a personal friend of Mrs. Zuger. During the luncheon Jackie was presented with a telegram from Mrs. L. Marie Murphy of Edgeley, a friend and admirer of Jack's wishing him many happy returns of the day. A number of beautiful gifts were presented to Jack by his friends.

Rose and Mary Wilton Believe in Hoosier State

"And," said Rose Wilton triumphantly, "we just got sick of advertising Georgia and the Carolinas and all those states, when there was good old Indiana that raised us and looked out for us and is really home, sweet home to us. So we collared a Hoosier song writer who is a friend of ours and said—

"Now you write us a piece about Indiana, that's what you do," broke in Mary in a voice so much like her sister's that you would never have dreamed one had stopped speaking and the other begun if you hadn't been watching their lips.

"And he did," Rose took up the tale promptly. "It's 'Blue Hoosier Blues', a perfectly grand waltz fox-trot, and maybe you think we don't sing it with expression!"

They do, and the song has carried the team billed as the "Wilton Sisters" right to the top of all the programs they grace.

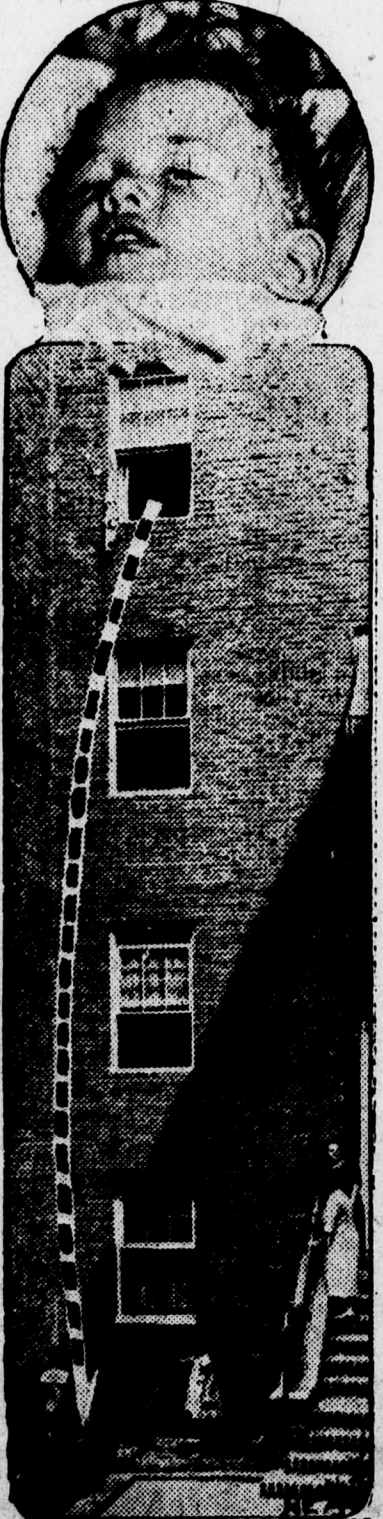

"We're a Hoosier boosting club of two," proclaimed Mary, "and we suit our words to our actions by putting our money into land back home."

"And this summer we're going to London to boost the Hoosier state by singing the 'Blue Hoosier Blues' there," ended Rose happily.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL. A drama of intrigue and mystery which is a romance of adventure and love will be seen in Shirley Mason's next William Fox production, "Youth Must Have Love," which will be shown at the Capitol theater tonight and Tuesday.

A cast of exceptional screen artists, including Wallace McDonald, who plays opposite the stars, Landers Stevens, the heavy; J. P. Lockney, an exceptional character actor and Cecil van Auler, who has played prominent parts in a number of recent productions, supports Miss Mason in "Youth Must Have Love."

The story is based on a youth, unjustly accused of the murder of an old miser and how a beautiful girl's faith and love and persistent efforts free him of the charge. How the real criminal is detected, when it appeared he had covered his tracks in such a manner as to prevent discovery, provides a mystery element to this play, which surpasses anything the youthful Fox star has been seen in for a long time.

THE ELTINGE. Walter Hiers appears as a happy-go-lucky soda dispenser who believes in Quicquid in Sixty Cents an Hour, showing at the Eltinge theater today and Tuesday. Jacqueline Logan is the object of his affections. "Some Punctures and Judy," round five of the "Fighting Blood" stories and Pathe News are also showing at the Eltinge Monday and Tuesday.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WALL STREET

Do you know how Wall Street got its name? Back in 1653, when New York City was known as New Amsterdam and was owned by the Dutch, it feared an attack from nearby English colonies. To keep out invaders, the inhabitants built a wall of logs and thick planks. The highway that gradually came into existence inside the stockade was called Wall Street.

The wooden wall was only 12 feet high, with sharp points along the top. To withstand battering-rams, it was braced on the south or inner side by banked-up earth.

New Amsterdam finally was captured by the forces of the Duke of York and renamed New York in honor of the captor. It wasn't much of a military victory, at the time, only 208 defenders surrendering.

The 208 might have done some tall fighting if they had known the future value of the dirt road inside the wooden wall.

It gives you an idea of how primitive things were, less than 300 years ago, when you stop to consider that a stockade 12 feet high was considered a reasonable defense against an attacking army.

Compare with modern fortifications and you realize the progress made by the devilish ingenuity of man in the matter of military devices.

One large bomb, dropped from a modern airplane, would have annihilated the old wall and most of the village it protected.

By another two years France expects to have 7000 military airplanes of high-power battle type. She already has 1250, against England's 600, America's 445 and Japan's 250.

The whole scheme and also the futility of armaments is graphically illustrated by the comparison of modern armaments with the wooden stockade from which Wall Street got its name.

Go back in history and you find men inventing shields that were impenetrable by spear or arrow. Then came gunpowder and the bullet that would pierce shields. It's a merry-go-round system, alternately working out a means of protection, then a means to counteract the protection.

The steel industry one year perfects a battleship armor-plate that no shell can penetrate. Then comes a shell that penetrates anything existing to date. Then a stronger armor-plate, next a more powerful shell . . . so on, generation after generation.

The armaments race goes on now, as in the past, thinly disguised. Some how humanity cannot get the fact through its dense brain, that there is no perfect protection or defense and no last word in offensive weapons.

No matter what any one invents for offense or defense, some one soon discovers a device that counteracts it.

SHANTY DAYS

Boys don't seem to be building shanties as much as they used to. And they're missing a lot, for the boyhood shanty looms as one of the most delightful spots in the memory of the man whose hair is white or beginning to turn gray above the ears.

The old-time shanty back yonder was our first big expression of the creative instinct. It taught us to build with our hands. It necessitated teamwork that instilled into us a sense of business organization. The community spirit was developed during the erection of the shanty and its management after completion.

The shanty was an expression of a certain period of American life. It dated from pioneer days when lads built small huts out of poles, in imitation of their father's log cabins.

Lumber is too scarce and expensive now. An outlay of at least $50 would be necessary to put up a shanty that the lads of 20 or more years ago would have considered a respectable piece of work.

The decided changes that are taking place in our civilization are most strikingly illustrated in the changed pastimes of youth. The shanty is not the only institution that is passing. That charming boyhood highway, the alley, is passing gradually, a victim of congestion and high real estate values. And the alley, where it still survives in the modern city, usually is only a ghastly ghost of the old-time alleys overgrown with weeds, canyon by high board fences and littered with old iron and bones for the junkman.

The movie serial has taken the place of Nick Carter, and machine-made cigars have displaced grapevine leaves and "Indian cigars." The old order changes. Youth concentrates on radio. It forecasts a coming generation of highly developed scientific powers, but at a fearful loss in boyhood enjoyments and pastimes.

LABOR DRAFT

Bulgaria is trying out a labor draft. It's modeled after the military conscription system by which all able-bodied males have to serve a certain length of time in the army.

This labor draft applies to women as well as men. It requires all members of both sexes—unless legitimately entitled to exemption—to perform a certain amount of work on behalf of the state.

The period of service is eight months for men and four months for women. It may be demanded at any age between 20 and 40 years for men and 16 and 30 for women.

Here, we believe, is something new in history—conscription for peace-time service.

HIRED

The steady tendency in our civilization is to get the same results with fewer employed. This constantly releases man power for the operation of new industries and expansion of old ones—that is, a gradual increase in our average standard of living.

Government issues figures showing that American farms in 1920 had 1,705,000 fewer workers than in 1910.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Suddenly Rainbow Land turned forty colors. Not pretty pinks and blues and yellows as it had been all along, but ugly colors like mud and ink and smoke.

At the same time there was a loud crash of thunder.

"Goodness!" cried Nancy, clapping her hands over her ears. "What's happened?"

"I knew it!" exclaimed Mister Sky Bow, stamping one of his little legs. "Did the rainbow door fall down?" asked Nick. "And what's that funny noise?"

"It's old Cross Patch at his tricks," stormed Mister Sky Bow. "Cross Patch is the jealous wizard who spoils everybody's fun. He has found the magic push-button that opens the rainbow door and he's sneaked in."

"He carries a magic stick he calls 'Old Harry,'" went on Mister Sky Bow, "and every time he waves it somebody becomes unhappy. That roaring noise is his voice and the other noise you hear is crying."

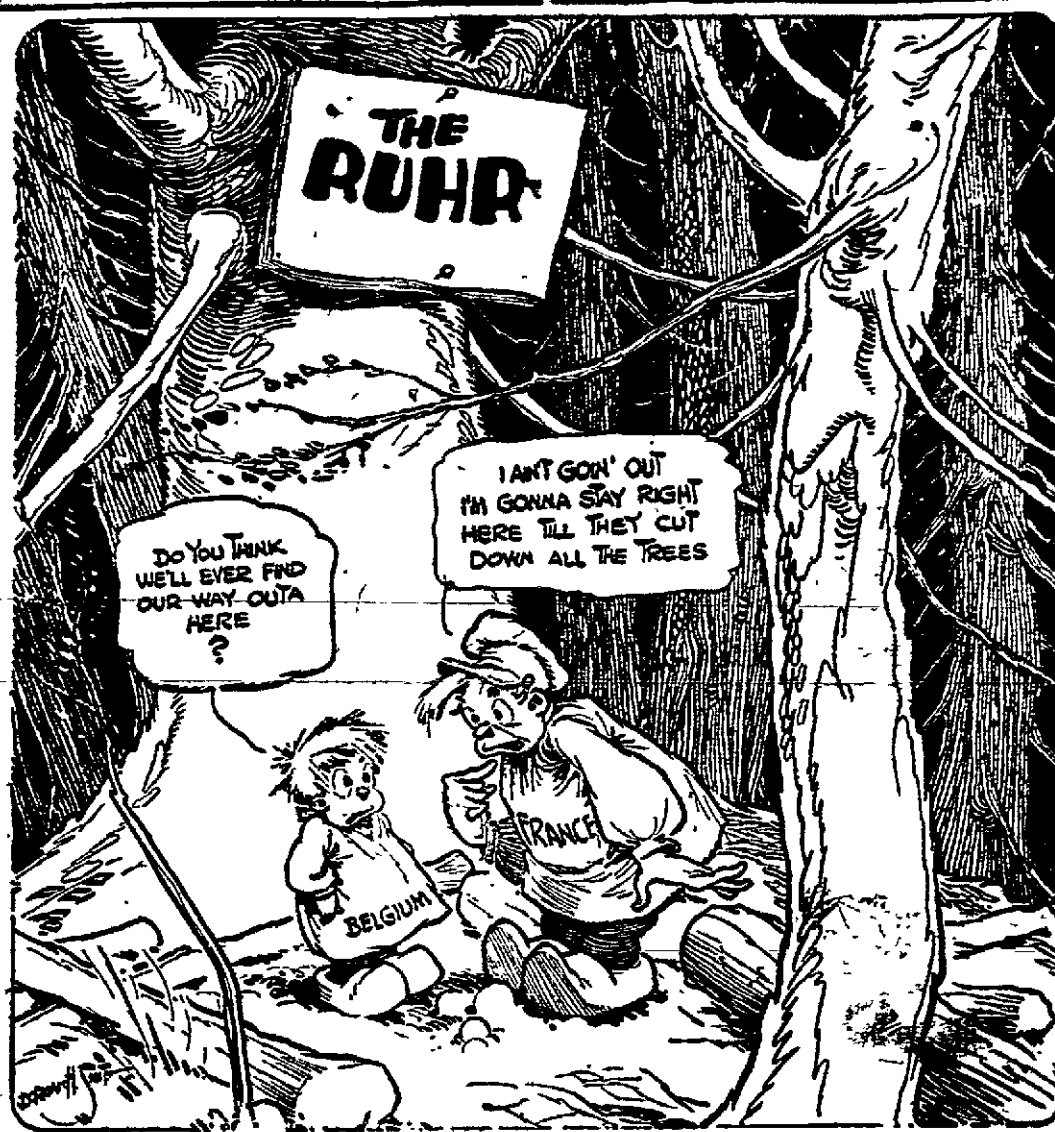

"Why the poor Rainbow Landers," said Mister Sky Bow. "The Noses and the Dummies and the Puffies and the Sneezees and everybody. They aren't happy any more, because Cross Patch has waved his horrid stick and made them unhappy. The Earsies, too, no doubt, have discovered that their ears they were so proud of, are not beautiful, and the Noses have probably learned the same thing about their noses."

"Oh, we'll have to help them," said the little girl.

LOST IN THE WOODS

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.

From now on, my dear Syd, I am going to conduct all my business with you through the mail. I can't understand why you shy at coming over here. You answer my letters with valery and dispatch. Are you afraid of me or are you afraid of Leslie?

I just cannot understand why you do not come to see us. Speaking of being afraid, I'm afraid of something that happened recently where the goddess of luck played the cards out to me.

I wonder if you ever met Harry Ellington's wife. She is a very decent sort of a girl and was one of the gayest and brightest young women in town before Harry married her.

For some reason she has completely changed since she married Harry. She has settled down as many girls do into a perfect little home body. While Harry has seemed to be more of a rouser than before.

I really felt very sorry for her and the other day I insisted that Harry should bring her up to our apartment to dinner. Leslie took to her immediately. Just why I do not know, for she has changed greatly since her marriage.

She is perfect colorless now as far as I can see. Leslie, however, seemed to see something in her that was there before her marriage.

The girls made an engagement with each other to go shopping the next day. Neither Harry nor I knew of this.

After they had fussed around town most of the day, they went into Martell's for tea. Now here is where I come in.

Just after luncheon Harry called me up and said, "Old man, I am lurching with Edith Chapman and I am sure you would like to know her."

I said, "I would like to pick up a friend to meet, Miss Dazell. If you'd like to make it a foursome for tea at Martell's, let me know."

I was very much put out that business kept me from going on this party. To tell you the truth, Syd, I don't all about Leslie and it seemed perfectly all right to lunch with any woman in a public and thorough respectable place like Martell's."

I had reason to give obligations to my goddess of luck that evening when Leslie came home and told me that she and Mrs. Ellington had gone to Martell's to tea.

While they were there, Walter Burke joined them and later who should come in, of course, but Harry and Miss Chapman? They hadn't taken up, Miss Dazell because I could not make one of the party.

I felt myself getting not all over as Leslie told me this, for you see I didn't know how she would take it especially as I had found a little fault with her and Mrs. Ellington for allowing Walter Burke to join them.

I wonder if I will ever remember that a married man has the same responsibility in keeping himself out of the mouths of the gossips that his wife has? As it is, tonight I am promising myself that in the future I shall be a very good little boy. It is a model young man that is writing you this letter, old chap.

of Ruth's. She knows too much about our sex. I would not like Leslie to be as self-contained or as sophisticated as she seems to be.

Haven't had a word from Paula Perier for ages. I guess that book is closed.

PERIODIC REVOLT

The question that has been asked for some weeks past has been answered. Minnesota, for years a rock-ribbed republican state, has now twice in close succession replaced republican senators with men of a radical type, standing for proposals of a strange nature.

This result in Minnesota may be regarded as further evidence of the tide of change in the middle west. It immediately revived memory of the populist movement of 1890-92, which rose to a height in 1894 and finally broke when the democrats precipitated the free silver issue in 1896.

Those radical movements occur with a certain periodicity in American politics. They are natural reactions. In this case, the question of moment is whether the farmer-labor tendency will go to the point of forcing a modification of policies of one of the major parties, or will progress to the point of the formation of a definite third party.

Recently, at Chicago, the farmer-labor party convention was vitally captured by the radicals and a split occurred. It was thought by some that this demonstration of the "boring from within" tactics of the communists would give fright to the Minnesota republican radicals and cause them to stand fast by their old party in the senatorial election soon to occur. But yesterday's vote indicated that the farmers and workmen of the state did not consider the Chicago affair at all, or else concluded that they had nothing to do with it, and being intent upon putting a man of party independence in the senate, proceeded with that purpose to the end of a big majority.

Choice of Magnus Johnson for United States senator from Minnesota, announced the late Knute Nelson is a vote of anger and protest that should make the Harding administration sit up and take notice. The size of his majority is an indication of a "boring" rather than a program, and there is no denying that it is a protest that should make the country into a realization of facts. There was no politics in the Minnesota election, the vote was almost negligible. The vote from both old parties voted for Johnson.

Behind the protest and surprise all about the cities and towns of Minnesota, rallying for Johnson were also the wild eyed radicals and acetics of every type who saw in their candidate a man who would stand solidly behind the "boring from within" tactics of the communists.

But one inexcusable fact is plainly shown. Mr. Harding has lost his working majority in the senate and unless his appeal reaches the "irreconcilables" and the middle leaders in an unexpected way, he has no chance of putting over his program in the next congress.

The leadership of the party is demoralized, even large having no stomach for the role of pilot for the administration in the senate. Even if the president were the leader who would attack the situation undismayed, the outcome would be doubtful. And while Mr. Harding is in Alaska he should be in perfect training for the political fight of his life when he returns to Washington.

THE YELLOW SEVEN
THE BOX TRICK

ONE SERVICE INCLUDES.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, is worried because jewels are stolen from Lady Stornaway while she is a guest at his home. Chai-Hung, influential Chinese, promises to assist in the recovery of the jewels. Peter Pennington, detective, is hired by the government to capture the leader of the Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Monica Vinney, sister of Captain Hewitt, persuades Officer Dawson to take her to a Chinese gambling den.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She could have sworn the Chinese man who manipulated the inverted shingle was none other than the man in whom her brother had declared absolute confidence—Chai-Hung! But, clearly as the swiftly-moving events of that momentous evening were imprinted on her memory, she was destined to witness a somewhat puzzling "curtain" so her singularly poignant drama, a climax that for some moments at least, forced her to believe she had been the victim of an optical illusion. For, as she turned to murmur her thanks to the imitable Dawson, her glance wandered from the flight of white steps to a long case chair at the far end of the commissioner's verandah.

Clothes in a suit of immaculate white, the commissioner, "dressed regularly of a healthy child, Chinese Pennington slumbered peacefully!"

Monica was leaning on the wooden rail, gazing beyond the sun-scorched slopes to where—at the farthest extremity of the white jetty, the black funnel of the Darvel emitted a faint, hesitant line of smoke.

Hewitt in his shirt sleeves, his torso set at a jaunty angle, was interviewing a native orderly in the garden. Hovering in the foreground, coolly inciting a juvenile fox-terrier to burrow in a bed for a legendary rat, Peter Pennington smoked and waited. He approached the commissioner the instant the interview was at an end.

"Just bend down to the boat," he explained. "She pushes off at eleven."

Hewitt glanced at his watch. "There's a good half-hour to go yet."

"Quite a lot can happen in half-an-hour," returned Pennington. "Still search everybody?"

The commissioner granted. "If you want my opinion," he said, "the confounded pendant's not on the island."

"I'm afraid I don't agree with you. It probably won't be here much longer." He flicked the ash from his cigarette. "Dear Chai-Hung!"

"But he's got up a bit by a coolie, asking permission to go on board and interview the supercargo about some rice he's expecting."

"Of course you refused?" The commissioner described a semi-circle in the dust with the toe of a shoe.

"The contrary," he asserted loftily. "I gave him my permit. The evidence you've succeeded in making together against him is purely circumstantial. You've always had your knife into him, you know."

Pennington stuck his feet wide apart. "He damn nearly had a knife into me a couple of nights ago!" He caught Hewitt's eye. "Look here, old son, I'm not letting you check away your chances like this. Stornaway's all right, but she'll never rest until she's got you out of this. Petticoat influence is the very devil!"

Chai-Hung's got that pendant on him now, don't you understand? Once he's got about you won't have a dog's chance of finding it."

The commissioner yawined. "You don't know who's got it," he declared.

"I've every reason to believe he has, and I'm not taking any risks. If you don't slip into your tunic and some down with me, I warn you I'll search him up and down!"

At that moment, Monica, trembling with suppressed excitement, caught sight of a red umbrella passing placidly along the roadway at the foot of the slope.

"Jack!" she called out suddenly, "go down with Mr. Pennington. You can afford to stand on ceremony."

"I'm up to my neck in work," growled Hewitt protestingly.

"It's something to have work to be up to your neck in!" declared his sister, joining them.

She waved her hand to them until they were out of sight, but only Pennington responded.

Within twenty yards of the gangway waited Chai-Hung. "Morning," said Pennington cheerfully.

The oriental stopped dead. "Good morning, gentlemen." He looked at Hewitt. "I have to thank you for your extreme courtesy," he told him smoothly. "On occasions like this there are certain formalities which—necessary though they may seem to be—are distinctly annoying."

The commissioner flushed. "I regret to inform you, Mr. Chai-Hung, that circumstances have arisen which necessitate enforcing the temporary measure even in your case."

The Chinaman started. "Do I understand, Captain Hewitt, that you propose searching me?" "I am afraid so."

Chai-Hung's lips parted, but his broad features betrayed not the least sign of emotion. For a second his gaze traveled to Pennington, who returned it with equanimity.

"I'm afraid you will both be disappointed."

"On the contrary," returned Pennington with studied politeness. "I feel sure that both the commissioner and myself would be infinitely mortified should it transpire that Lady Stornaway's diamonds have come into your possession."

Chai-Hung drew in a deep breath, folded his umbrella, and handed it to a waiting coolie.

Hewitt moved impatiently. "Might as well get this unpleasant duty over," he suggested. "A cabin would be the handiest place, don't you think, Pennington?"

They crossed the gangway and passed into the first state-room that chanced to be unoccupied. Pennington closed the door.

"Can I offer you a drink, Mr. Chai-Hung?" asked the commissioner. The oriental shook his head and, producing a cigar-case quaintly embroidered with a silver dragon, glanced anxiously round.

"I have your permission to smoke?" "Most certainly," Hewitt hastened to assure him. "No, thanks. Not for me. If you don't mind, I'll have a cigar."

Pennington, seated on the edge of the berth, his hands stuck deep in his pockets, declined also. Chai-Hung lit up carefully, and passed the matches on to the commissioner.

Ten minutes later, both Englishmen emerged.

Hewitt dropped into a chair and, tilting back his sun-helmet, mopped a moist brow.

"Now are you satisfied?" he demanded. "Perfectly," declared Pennington enigmatically. "What d'you say to some liquid refreshment?"

"If it weren't so confoundedly hot," said the commissioner, "I'd order a double brandy! As far as I can see, you've made a pretty mess of the whole affair. I'd have put my shirt on Chai-Hung—and I was right. I can tell you—if you don't already know it—that our mutual acquaintance is mortally offended with the way you went over him."

"I'll chuckle the other way," signaling to a steward who lounged in the doorway. "I suppose we've just about time to quench our thirsts and get ashore before she sails."

He ordered slings. The deep-throated note of the vessel's siren reverberated suddenly and, as that moment, Chai-Hung emerged from the cabin surveying the dead end of the cigar he had laid aside.

Both men rose, but the benign smile with which the oriental greeted them drove the intended apology from Hewitt's lips.

"Efficiency, Mr. Pennington," he said, "is the keynote of success. I sincerely hope that before we meet again you will have been successful in your search."

With disarming cordiality, he dropped a hand on the shoulder of each and accompanied them to the gangway.

Hewitt was on the point of crossing to the jetty when Chai-Hung laid his hand on his arm.

"You will never cure yourself of that little falling, I'm afraid," he asserted blandly. "Do you mind returning me my matches?"

The commissioner dropped his cane. "You don't mean to say—?" By God! I have thought!" He produced the matches.

The oriental, still smiling, reached out for it, but before his fingers could close on it, Pennington's had intervened.

"Just a minute," he murmured apologetically, a queer light in his eyes. "Mine

Mammy Songs Now Said To Be Hellenic

Modern Syncopation Akin to Greek Odes Declare Singers

Who'd have thought that mammy songs, which originated way-down south in Dixie where the pickaninnies always have been crowned to sleep by the mellowest melodies on earth, could be traced back to Homer and those other high-brow shining lights of Grecian times?

But according to Joe McFarlane and John Palace, who sing in vaudeville for a living and delve in Greek poetry just for fun outside working hours, this is true.

"Pure Greek, that's what the mammy songs like 'Carolina'

Mammy' are," Palace insisted. "Trochaic and iambic and all that sort of thing, classical in the extreme, and just crammed full of sheer, heart-touching beauty."

"We have tried the experiment of combining syncopated singing with the recitation of the lyrics of a trochaic ode. While I am caroling these bars:

McFarlane recites with true Greek gesture:

"Caroline, I'm long you—" "It works, it proves my point and gets us thundering applause."

LOCALS TAKE FIRST GAME IN DOUBLE BILL

Beat Charley Boardman in Game at Valley City, But Lose the Second

Valley City, July 23.—Bismarck made its first game at Valley City, winning the first game of a double header by an 8 to 1 score. The locals had little difficulty in shutting the visitors out in the second game when they chalked up their first victory of the series by a 4 to 0 score.

Boardman, local pitcher, made his first appearance in the first game and naturally the fans looked to him to turn in a win, but in vain.

Dunn registered a shut-out over the visitors in the second game. Before the game an agreement was made to call it at 5:45 p. m., so as to allow the Bismarck team to catch train. It was called before the end of the seventh.

The visitors started scoring in the first game in the third when Throckmorton scored from third on Randall's single to center. The count was tied in the same inning when Kennedy scored from third on Jude's single well into the center garden. The visitors scored two runs in the fourth. The bases were full with only one away when Noll sent the ball well into center field scoring Bernier and Zart. Condon was out on a fielder's choice. Zimmerman was caught at home plate and the side retired. Shanlaub was out on a fly, Seibold hit to first, Benshoff singled and Wallin grounded to the pitcher who threw him out at first. In the fifth, Throckmorton fanned, Randall was out on a fielder's choice and Boardman fanned to the pitcher. Kennedy bunted to third and was safe at first. Lauber hit safe, Bamage sacrificed. Jude fanned to second. It looked as if the ball would clear the second baseman's head but he grabbed it and Lauber, who left second, was caught off the bag.

In the sixth Shanley fanned to right field, Seibold made a good run for it and he was out. Bernier singled, Zart fanned and Zimmerman was thrown out at first when he grounded to second. Boardman was thrown out at first, Shanlaub fanned to center and Seibold fanned to left completing the sixth inning.

The visitors scored twice in the seventh. Condon was safe on Bernier's error, Noll singled and Condon went to third scoring on Throckmorton's single. Randall fanned to the left field fence scoring Zimmerman on a double. Zimmerman went to third on a pass ball and Throckmorton fanned when Boardman sent three balls over so fast he took them all for strikes. The locals failed to score in the eighth.

In the ninth Randall hit to Shanlaub on first and was thrown out. Dougan walked and Shanley fanned to right field. Dougan stole second and Bernier walked. Both men scored on an over throw from catcher to third. Zart walked, Zimmerman singled and stole second. Condon hit a fly to the pitcher and the game was over so far as any more scoring was concerned, the locals being unable to get another runner across the home plate.

First game:
Bismarck.....001 200 212—8 11 3
Valley City.....001 000 000—1 9 4
Batteries: Valley City, Boardman and Wallin. Bismarck, Throckmorton and Dougan.

Second Game
Dunn registered a shut out over the visitors in the second game of the double header when Valley City won their first and only game of the series by a 4 to 0 count.

Randall grounded to second, and was thrown out at first. Dougan did the same and Shanley walked. Bernier fanned to second.

The locals scored in the first frame when Kennedy singled, Lauber who came to bat in place of Boardman who had his finger split when hit by a pitched ball, was safe on a fielder's choice. Jude bunted into a double and Boardman walked. Shanlaub singled scoring Lauber from second. Seibold fanned to center. The visitors again failed to score. In the second Benshoff walked, Wallin sacrificed as did Dunn. Kennedy fanned to the left fielder who dropped the ball and Benshoff scored. Lauber was thrown out at first. This completed the scoring until the last of the fifth. Boardman was out at first, Shanlaub grounded to third and was safe going to second on an over throw to first. Seibold singled. Benshoff singled scoring Shanlaub.

Wallin was safe at first on Condon's error. Dunn fanned and Kennedy was out on a fielder's choice. The scoring was completed in the sixth when Valley City again scored. Lauber fanned to left field, Jude walked and Boardman sacrificed. Bernier took the mound and Taylor was sent to the left garden. Shanlaub singled scoring Jude. Seibold fanned to left field and the side retired. Neither side scored in the seventh and last inning.

Before the game an agreement was made to call the game at 5:45 so as to allow the Bismarck team to catch their train. It was called just before the end of the seventh.

LUQUE NOW MAJORS' PITCHING ACE

Cuban Of Reds Sets Out To Dispel Moran's Pre-Season Dope—And Does It

ADOLFO LUQUE, BIG CUBAN TWIRLER FOR THE CINCINNATI NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM, IS THE PITCHING SENSATION OF THE MAJORS THIS YEAR

Cincinnati, July 23.—Often one pitcher going at top speed makes a ball club.

This is particularly true if the club didn't bank strongly on the showing of that pitcher.

Adolfo Luque of the Cincinnati club is easily the pitching sensation of the major leagues. He has made the Reds a dangerous contender for the fast, going New York Giants.

Last season Rixey, by his sensational work, kept the Reds in the race. This year Luque has supplanted Rixey and then some. The jinx that plagued Luque last year seems to be on the trail of Rixey this season. Inability of Luque to win consistently last year was a big handicap to Pat Moran in his quest for the pennant.

Getting away to a bad start in the spring of 1922 Luque had his troubles winning no matter how well he pitched. The very best he could do was win 13 and lose 23 games for a percentage much lower than that recorded by his club.

When the 1923 campaign opened Manager Pat Moran had his doubts about Luque. Some of the experts on the National League circuit figured the Cuban was slipping. Luque immediately proceeded to upset the dope and has kept on doing it.

In the first 15 games that he has worked Luque has scored 13 victories and suffered only two defeats. Strangely enough the Chicago Cubs won both games by the scores of 2 to 1 and 2 to 0. Luque pitched brilliantly in the two defeats, the breaks of the game, which went against him, decided the issue.

Of the 13 games won by Luque, seven came in a row. Only 23 runs have been made off Luque's delivery in his remarkable pitching performance covering 20 games, in several of which he acted as relief pitcher. An additional proof of his effectiveness can be gleaned from the fact that he leads the National League in strikeouts.

Fohl Slated To Succeed Chance As Manager

By NEA Service.
Boston, Mass., July 23.—It is almost an assured fact that Lee Fohl, present manager of the St. Louis Browns, will handle the Boston Red Sox next season.

Frank Chance's contract is a one-year affair. While Chance has done wonders with a ball club that is more or less a minor league affair, it is practically certain that he will retire at the close of the season.

Lee Fohl is in a way a protégé of Bob Quinn, the new president of the Boston club. There is hardly a doubt but that Quinn will take Fohl to Boston. Already from St. Louis has come the report that Sister is to succeed Fohl as leader of the Browns.

When Quinn was business manager of the Columbus team of the American Association, that club had a minor league farm at Akron. Quinn started Fohl in the managerial game by placing him there. Meeting with success, Fohl was taken from Akron to Columbus. When Quinn took charge at St. Louis he selected Fohl to lead the Browns.

Fohl's ability as a manager has never been quite appreciated. He always has his team up in the race. There is nothing flashy about him, however, and he has never been press agented from the house tops, as less capable leaders have. As a result Fohl is seldom in the limelight. Nevertheless, his system of managing a club has always met with success and it's the games won that count in baseball.

Indianapolis 11-7; Minneapolis 10-4 (1st game 10 innings, second called end 5th, 6 p. m., closing law). Toledo 6; Kansas City 7. Columbus 6-3; Milwaukee 6-9.

Kinks The Links

Player on reaching the green discovers that a high wind is blowing directly into his line of putt. Figuring that the presence of his caddy at the hole will break some of the force of the wind, the player sends his caddy there, presumably to assist him in lining up his putt. Has a player such a right?

The player in sending his caddy to stand at the hole is within his rights according to the strict interpretation of the rule. In all probability his presence there may break some of the force of the wind and prevent it from affecting the course of his ball. If so, he is entitled to that break given him by the rule. The caddy, however, must in no way move or otherwise try to influence the action of the wind on the ball.

What amateurs other than Bobby Jones have figured in a national open championship to the extent of winning or tying for the title?

In 1913 Francis Ouimet tied with Ray and Vardon and won the play-off. Two years later Jerome Traversa went over. The following year Chick Evans, with 286, the lowest score ever made in an open, captured the title.

It is permissible for a player having a short putt to place his hand in the hole and putt the ball into his hand? While this is often done in friendly matches, it is of course a breach of the rules in match competition. There is always a chance that the ball will jump the hole if putted too strongly. Placing of the hand in the hole eliminates this possibility. Such an action would tend to disqualify a competitor.

Two partners in a four-ball match accidentally exchange balls and play out the hole that way and apparently win it. Then the mistake is discovered. Must the mistake be discovered before they hole out if a penalty is to be inflicted? The rules specifically state that the players accidentally lose the hole when partners exchange balls. No consideration can be given the fact that the happening was accidental and that the players holed out the wrong ball before it was discovered.

Joe McClusky of Bismarck took high rank at the invitational shoot of the Bismarck Gun Club held Sunday afternoon at the traps adjoining the Country Club. Blind Man's Buff

Even in this age of enlightenment some folks spend their money blindly.

They buy with their eyes shut. They grope in the dark as truly as if their eyes were bandaged.

And all the time a powerful light is being thrown on the very things they need and want!

Advertising is a beacon to guide you in buying. It shows you what to buy—where to buy—and when to buy. At the same time, it protects you against fraud and inferiority.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise deliberately focus thousands of eyes upon their wares. Their values must be honest and their prices right, or they could not advertise successfully.

Don't play blind man's buff with the elusive dollar. Spend a few minutes each day running through the advertisements in this paper. Then buy the products that have proved up in the light of advertising.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO MRS. E. BEATTY

Sterling Woman Dies Suddenly While Sitting on Porch Saturday Evening

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Beatty of Sterling, succeeded to a heart attack Saturday night at 11:15 o'clock while sitting on the porch at the farm home. Mrs. Beatty was 42 years of age.

Mrs. Beatty, wife of George Beatty, had been shopping in McKenzie Saturday. Upon her return home she had prepared the evening meal and retired for the night when she suddenly called to her husband who was in an adjoining room to help her out of doors because of the closeness of the room. After assisting his wife to the porch Mr. Beatty entered the house and in a few minutes he returned to his wife and began to feel her pulse. "I am going," and drew her last breath.

Coroner E. J. Gobel was immediately called to the farm home three and one-half miles north of Sterling. After examination and consultation with the family physician who said that he had been treating the deceased for the past ten years, a heart attack the coroner declared the death due to natural causes.

Mrs. Beatty whose maiden name was Elizabeth K. Gelchrist was born in Nova Scotia and came with her husband in 1911 to reside in Sterling, where they have since resided. She was a farmer's wife for the past twelve years. The deceased is survived by her husband and a thirteen year old daughter, Belva Mary.

Funeral services will be held from Sterling at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. Styles Harris will officiate. Interment will take place in the Sterling cemetery. The deceased will be laid to rest beside an infant son.
